House Group Approves Segregation Bills

Gore Attacks House-Okayed Highway Plan

Ask Present Allocation Fund Be Continued

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn) today denounced as "highly inequitable" a House-approved plan for allocating federal interstate highway funds among the states.

In a speech prepared for Senate debate on the highway bill, he called instead for a continuation of the present allocation plan which he said "has the merit of having worked satisfactorily for two years."

The Senate was striving to complete action on the multibillion-dollar highway construction and taxing bill by tomorrow night, in advance of the Memorial Day holiday.

There appeared to be little advance controversy over tax provisions of the bill, which would increase the federal gasoline tax from 2 to 3 cents a gallon and boost levies also on tires, trucks, buses, diesel fuel, trailers and tread rubber.

The taxes are designed to raise an estimated 14½ billion dollars, in addition to the yield of present highway user taxes, to finance the expanded road building program.

Part of the federal money would go for extra aid to states on primary, secondary and urban roads, but the greatest part, about 25 billions, would go for a 40,000-mile network of interstate highways, most of them four-and six-lane roads. The federal government would pay 90 per cent of the cost of these.

Gore, author of a highway bill passed by the Senate last year, sought to continue the present formula of allocating interstate funds to states based two thirds on population, one sixth on area and one sixth on road mileage. The Senate Public Works Committee wrote that plan into the Senate bill.

Stevenson And Kefauver Wind Up Florida Campaign

WASHINGTON —UP— The two active Democratic presidential candidates wound up their Florida primary campaigns Monday while Missouri Democrats assembled to put a potentially formidable dark horse in the field.

In Florida, Sen. Estes Kefauver and Adlai E. Stevenson were at the end of a rugged state campaign in which they were bidding for votes in Tuesday's presidential primary. Twenty-eight national convention votes will be at stake.

Stevenson was scheduled to leave Miami Monday morning for California where he faces Kefauver in their final primary contest a week from Tuesday. Kefauver planned to fly to California Tuesday.

Tokyo Registers Powerful H-Bomb Blast On Bikini

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese scientists announced their instruments indicated the United States set off another hydrogen blast at Bikini today comparable in power to the mighty May 21 H-bomb explosion.

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington had no immediate comment.

The Tokyo Central Meteorological Observatory said its 15 gauges throughout Japan recorded atmospheric pressure waves from the direction of Bikini for about 40 minutes. The observatory said the duration and strength of the waves were the same as those recorded after the May 21 blast, which exploded with an estimated force of more than 10 million tons of TNT.

A "supersensitive" seismograph at Matsushiro, 130 miles northwest of Tokyo, recorded earth shock nearly three hours ahead of the air gauge readings, the scientists reported. The seismograph also recorded the May 21 blast before the atmospheric instruments.

Earth shocks travel much faster than atmospheric pressure waves.

Schwimmer's Life In Jeopardy

Mistrial Declared In Tax Conspiracy Case

ST. LOUIS—UP—A mistrial was declared Monday in the trial of Harry I. Schwimmer, accused of conspiring with two former Truman administration officials to fix a tax case.

Federal Judge Rubey M. Hulen ordered the mistrial in Schwimmer's case after two physicians testified Schwimmer's life would be in jeopardy if he continued on trial.

Charles Margiotti, counsel for T. Lamar Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, moved to have a mistrial declared also in Caudle's case. Margiotti claimed the cases of Schwimmer and Caudle were intertwined.

John Lasly, attorney for Matthew J. Connelly, former White House aid to former President Harry S. Truman, also requested a mistrial.

Wyllys Newcomb, special assistant attorney general, said he believed the government had introduced enough evidence to continue the hearing against Caudle and Connelly.

Dr. Walter Baumgartner Jr., a court appointed physician, concurred in the opinion of Schwimmer's private doctor that Schwimmer's continued presence at the hearing would endanger his life.

Schwimmer suffered a heart attack last week after testifying briefly on a motion to throw out the government's evidence against him on the grounds it violated the guarantee against self incrimination.

Civil War Threat Feared By British In Cyprus Conflict

NICOSIA, Cyprus —UP— A series of bloody clashes this weekend between Greek and Turkish Cypriots increased British fears Monday of a civil war.

British troops enforced a strict curfew and erected barbed wire barricades in some towns to separate the two rival forces, but tension was reaching the boiling point.

Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, leader of the Turkish Cypriots, said new clashes will make it impossible to control the Turkish element on the British-owned island.

There were reverberations in Athens and Greek Foreign Minister Spyros Theotokis submitted his resignation early Monday because of a dispute over his moderate approach to the Cyprus problem.

Rioting between Turkish and Greek villagers flared late last week because of Turkish anger over the murder of a Turkish policeman. It increased in scope over the weekend and a Turk and a Greek were killed.

Thundershowers Again Predicted

The weatherman is still predicting scattered thundershowers and continued warm weather.

The mercury got as high as 87 at noon Monday, climbing from a low of 68.

The temperature outlook for Tuesday is much the same. The high is expected to be 91, the low 68.

Northeast State Graduates Hear Suffragan Bishop

Nothing has survived like the Christian church, the Right Reverend Iveson B. Noland, suffragan bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Louisiana, told the Northeast State graduating class at Sunday's baccalaureate service in Brown auditorium.

The speaker warned the class against accepting false gods in an age where prominence is given to pleasure, power, possessions, social prestige and communism. He referred to these false gods which should be ejected in the belief of the scripture, "I am the Lord thy God."

Pleasure is an easy god to see through, the bishop said. It is a by-product of something else and runs into the law of diminishing returns. God means for us to enjoy life, the speaker explained. Religion can appreciate youth and happiness. But the individual must not be spared the reality of life while he is seeking pleasure.

Power is a more subtle god, Bishop Noland declared. We may feel that the reins of power can be used for the betterment of man. In yielding power, we must be willing, however, to subject ourselves to people as well as to God.

Possessions frequently become idols and cash takes on the significance of a deity, according to the bishop. Parents may become enchanted with making money that they neglect their children by failure in giving them proper time and interest. "Health, sacred honor and other vital factors in man's life are often given to the "Great god cash" the speaker said. "When such a god dies, it is no wonder that men commit suicide."

The speaker warned the gradu-

Italian Reds Trounced In Early Returns

Regimes At Stake In 8 Major Cities

ROME — UP — Italy's Communist party, the biggest in the free world, suffered losses Monday in the first returns from Italy's nation-wide local elections.

Premier Antonio Segni's Christian Democratic party, the pro-western group that has governed Italy through the postwar struggle against fascism and communism, took heart from the early but inconclusive returns.

A big turnout among the 30 million eligible men and women voting in the West's first big test of the Kremlin's "smile Offensive," encouraged Democratic parties which had feared Democratic apathy would give the local posts to the Communists.

But apparently the Communist party was undermined by Moscow's flip-flop on Josef Stalin, for early returns showed Democratic gains.

It was too early for any cheering by the West. Voting continued Monday and there were no results from the major cities' tight races.

City administrations were at stake in such major cities as Rome, Turin, Genoa, Milan, Venice, Trieste, Bologna, Florence, Leghorn, Naples and Bari. A total of 7,141 communities or districts in 79 provinces was involved.

The trend toward leftist losses also showed up in the first returns from Palermo, capital city of the island of Sicily.

Returns from 53 of the city's 465 districts showed gains for the Christian Democrats and losses for both the Communists and their left wing Socialist allies.

Deadline Today For Qualifying In School Races

With the deadline for qualifying for the Ouachita Parish school board race at 5 p.m. Monday, incumbent school board members in three wards were unopposed while four were vieing for the office in Ward 3, Bert Sperry, chairman of the Ouachita parish Democratic executive committee, said.

School board members in four wards will be chosen in the July 31 primary along with the Democratic nominee for congressman of the Fifth Congressional District.

Candidates unopposed for reelection at noon were Ward 1, Dr. B. E. Spencer; Ward 2, Warren E. Palmer; and Ward 5, C. G. Wall, Jr.

Ward 3, which has two representatives, has four candidates. They are Fred S. McVay, W. G. Worley, and C. L. Hinton, Jr.

Ward 3 members Marcus D. Swayze and Henry Hartmen, both of whose terms expire this year, will not seek re-election.

Candidates in the congressional race are Otto E. Passman, incumbent, Mrs. Guy H. Alford, mayor of Columbia, and Ragan D. Madden, district attorney of Lincoln and Union parishes.

29,028-Foot Peak

Swiss Climbers In Double Conquest Of Mt. Everest

KHATMANDU, Nepal —UP— A band of Swiss mountaineers climbed to the top of Mount Everest twice last week for the first double conquest of the world's highest mountain, a message to the Swiss legation here reported Monday.

One pair hauled themselves atop the 29,028-foot peak Wednesday and a second made it Thursday despite the early onset of the monsoon rainy season.

The historic double conquest was announced by the Swiss legation here just one day short of three years after Sir Edmund Hillary, a New Zealand beekeeper, and Tensing Norkay, his native Nepalese Sherpa guide, first reached the top of Everest while part of a British expedition led by Col. Henry C. J. Hunt.

The Swiss feat was made all the more dramatic by a footnote to the victory message received here from the Swiss base camp.

This said that on May 18 — six days before the Everest climb — two of the Swiss mountaineers had mastered the neighboring Himalayan peak of Lhotse, which is the world's fourth highest summit at 27,800 feet.

Adolf Reist and F. Luchsinger mastered Lhotse and then the expedition turned its full efforts on Everest, a target of Swiss mountaineers since it first was discovered.

Expedition leader Schmidt and Z. Marmet clambered to the top of Everet on May 23. Reist, quickly recovered from the Lhotse climb, and H. Rudoej followed in their tracks to the top the next day.

The first message from the climbers gave no information on what they found. Hillary and Tensing planted the British flag atop Everest after their 1953 coronation year climb.

But the Swiss mountaineers are "proud and happy," the message said. This apparently meant they had made it up and back without casualties.

Burn Cross At Residence Of Negro Girls

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Police reported a cross was burned last night on the front lawn of the residence of two Negro college girls who were arrested on a city bus Saturday.

The two, students at Florida A. & M. University here, were charged with placing themselves in a position to cause a riot after they refused to move to the rear of a city bus.

Mrs. Eloise Kendrick, who owned the house where the two roomed, said a car drove up in front of her home about 10 p.m., stopped a few minutes, then drove off at high speed.

One of the two girls noticed a fire and on examination found a small cross of crude wooden construction burning fiercely.

Mrs. Kendrick said the two girls became frightened and moved into the college dormitory.

Police said they had been unable to determine who burned the cross but were making an investigation.

Police Fred Lehman said Wilhelmina Jakes, 26, and Carrie F. Patterson, 20, sat down in a front seat next to a white woman and ignored a request by bus driver Max Coggins that they move to the back.

The girls said the only two unoccupied seats in the bus were in the front, and that when they sat there, the driver ordered them to stand in the rear of the bus. They said they then offered to get off if

Shreveport Girl Is 'Miss Lincoln Parish Of 1956'

RUSTON, May 28—(Special)—A 20-year-old beauty from Shreveport was crowned "Miss Lincoln Parish of 1956" here this weekend and will represent the parish in the forthcoming Miss Louisiana contest which is to be held in Lake Providence.

Miss Sylvia Rae Middlebooks, lovely Louisiana Tech coed, was named Miss Lincoln Parish following her impressive showing in the annual pageant sponsored here by the Ruston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The big attraction was staged Friday night in Howard auditorium on the campus of Louisiana Tech and 10 contestants vied for the coveted title.

A graduate of Fair Park High School in Shreveport, Miss Middlebooks was entered under the sponsorship of the Preston H. Hardage Ford agency of Ruston. Mr. Hardage is a former resident of Shreveport.

She replaces Jan Johnston of Ruston as the Miss Lincoln Parish honoree. Miss Johnston is the reigning Miss Louisiana titlist, having won the state's highest beauty honor at Lake Providence last year to advance to the 1955 Miss America contest in New Jersey.

The brown-hair, blue-eyed beauty was named as the winner after the five finalists had been judged on their answers to three questions.

The questions presented to each finalist were:

Bulletin

WASHIINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today rejected two appeals from lower court school desegregation rulings.

The tribunal thus adhered to its apparent intent of leaving the matter of timing to lower federal courts to work out in the light of local conditions.

In one case the high court had been asked to rule whether U. S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright of New Orleans Parish School Board to desegregate its public schools with all deliberate speed.

The board contended a request by Negro parents for the order should have been acted upon by a special three-judge federal court that sat in New Orleans, and not by Judge Wright alone. The Supreme Court refusal today to hear the case lets Wright's order stand unchanged.

French Rioters Stall Shipment Of Soldiers To Front

ST. NAZAIRE, France (AP)—A mob of about 1,500 men stormed through police lines today and carried home in triumph a group of reservists who were scheduled to leave by train for service in Algeria.

A force of about 1,000 mobile guards and special riot police, swinging gunbutts and clubs was unable to check the demonstrators' march on the railway station in this heavily Communist seaport and shipbuilding town. Tear gas and practice grenades also were used in vain.

The mob threw anything within reach at the police—stones, iron bars and heavy bolts. Several persons were injured.

About 200 reservists were on the train, due to leave for the Mediterranean at noon.

The protest started off with about 300 persons swarming over the railroad tracks and around the station, and swelled rapiedly as workers left their jobs in metal plants and in the construction industry at the call of the Communist-dominated General Federation of Labor.

The non-Communist unions did not order their men to join in the walkout, but expressed sympathy with the reservists recalled to active duty.

Quick 'Ayes' Sounded At Presentation

Committee On Education First To Endorse

BATON ROUGE — UP — The Education committee functioned with assurances and ease today in stamping unanimous approval on each of six segregation bills aimed at drawing tighter Louisiana's federal integration moves.

In only one case, that of a proposed amendment to the Constitution withdrawing the consent of the state to suits against state agencies, was there any question. And in this instance, the committee amended the bill by adding the state department of education to the list of state agencies exempt from suit.

Rep. John Garrett of Claiborne and William Shaw, an attorney and executive of the Citizens' Councils Association, took turns presenting the package of six bills to the committee, all winning quick unanimous "ayes" from the members.

Garrett was the principal House sponsor of the bills introduced last week, along with an interposition resolution which declared the U. S. Supreme Court's segregation rulings "null and void."

Garrett said an interposition resolution "will be introduced to the Senate at tonight's session—and we don't expect opposition."

The full Senate convenes tonight at 7 p.m.

The resolution was adopted by the House unanimously and the Senate was expected to follow suit putting Louisiana in camp with five sister Southern states who

First Rabid Fox Of Year Killed In This Parish

Dr. W. Carroll Summer, director of Ouachita Parish health unit, Monday reported that the first rabid fox in this parish this year has been killed after biting a calf.

Mrs. Mary Jordon, of Calhoun, brought the dead fox to the health center late Thursday after it bit one of her calves.

Dr. Summer said that the head of the fox was examined in the Monroe regional laboratory and that the brain showed positive evidence of rabies. He added that the calf would have to be closely observed for the next 60 days to detect if it had contracted rabies as a result of the bite.

Numerous rabid foxes have been killed in the northern and northwestern sections of the state this year, especially in Lincoln parish, but this is the first one reported in this parish, he added.

2 Men Rescued After 12 Hours On Gulf Island

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Coast Guard helicopter today rescued two men stranded on Chandeleur Island for 12 hours after their private plane flipped over on its back while landing for a fishing trip.

They were George W. Budenski, 39, owner of the plane, and Edward L. Berner, both of New Orleans.

Budenski said his plane nosed over and then flipped on its back when a landing wheel hit a soft spot on the island.

uates against over-rating social prestige. It can easily become a false god, he asserted. Social prestige may interfere with one's being decent and having a religion, he told the group. He illustrated the point by relating Will Rogers' story about giving $500 to discover his family tree, then paying another $500 to have it covered.

Communism is one of the most powerful false gods, Bishop Noland pointed out. The communist continues to show great zeal, regardless of what section in Russia he lives. He contrasted this enthusiasm and eagerness with the persons in this country who demonstrate lethargy in their beliefs. When they move from one section to another, they seem to require forceful stirring to show any religious interest. This lack of concern cannot compete with the communist zeal which has ability to control individuals, the speaker declared.

Farr Is Sworn In For Sixth Term As Clerk

R. D. Farr, clerk of court for Ouachita parish, who was unopposed in his bid for re-election, was sworn in Monday morning by Judge David I. Garrett.

This was the sixth time that Mr. Farr has taken the oath of office. The first time was on his birthday February 18, 1937, when he was appointed for the unexpired term of Pat Hamilton.

This day also has a special meaning for M. Farr, as it is his 42nd wedding anniversary.

Following the oath of office taken by Mr. Farr, the entire personnel of the clerk's office was sworn in for another four years.

Mr. Farr stated that he and his staff were grateful for the wholehearted support that the public and especially the officials of Monroe and West Monroe and of Ouachita parish had given them.

"We pledge to them our very best efforts as long as we remain in their service," Mr. Farr said.

Legislature Ready To Study Long's 12-Point Program

BATON ROUGE — UP — The Louisiana Legislature today prepared to go to work on Gov. Earl Long's legislative program which calls for maximum old age assistance payments of $65 a month and elimination of voting machines in some precincts.

Long threw his 12-bill program into the House at a brief Sunday night session.

More of his program is expected in the next seven days.

One of his bills would reduce the education department's share of sales tax income from 25 to 17½ per cent, with the Welfare Department picking up education's loss.

Through some of his staunch House supporters, Long also called for an increase in the severance tax on timber and asked that voting machines be prohibited in precincts having under 200 registered voters.

The measures were part of 90 bills introduced in the House yesterday before the lower house adjourned until 11 a.m. today.

The Senate will meet at 7 p.m. today.

Long's program would:

1. Set minimum old age welfare payments at $65 instead of the present $60.

2. Prohibit use of voting machines in precincts having 200 registered voters or less. It would also set up a new voting machine board and give the board authority to withhold use of voting machines in precincts having 201 to 300 registered voters.

3. Propose a constitutional amendment repealing the present severance tax on timber, at the same time endorsing any additional taxes on timber imposed by the present Legislature, and also:

4. Levy a severange tax on five per cent on all timber except pulpwood and 12½ per cent on all wood on the average market value and dedicate 75 per cent to the Louisiana Forestry Commission and 25 per cent to LSU for capital improvements.

5. Reduce from 25 to 17½ per cent of sales tax proceeds allocated to the state department of education and require that a $5 million surplus be maintained in the public welfare fund, instead of the $15 million now required by law.

6. Provide for holding a constitutional convention composed of 121 delegates, with 15 members to be appointed by the governor; 101 elected; three members of the Louisiana State Law Institute designated by the governor; the chief justice of the state supreme court and one associate justice. The convention would be called by Jan. 7,

7. Establish a board of highways composed of members from each congressional district—all appointed by the governor — to serve on a full time basis at $7,200 a year. A legislator would serve as chairman.

8. Set minimum deposits required on any highway contract in excess of $500,000 at $25,000 at the discretion of the director of highways.

9. Increase membership of the state mineral board to 15 from the present 12.

10. Increase membership of the board of Commerce and Industry from 12 to 15.

11. Designate the budget office as a section of the division of administration. The bill indicates Long will not push for discontinuance of the annual legislative fiscal session, which was begun under the administration of former Gov. Robert Kennon.

12. Propose a constitutional amendment to limit the number of constitutional amendments to be submitted by each session of the Legislature to 16.

When someone's counting on you…

you can count on life insurance

Like most fathers, you are naturally proud of your role as good provider—proud that your family can count on you for the years ahead.

You, in turn, can count on life insurance to help you meet these future responsibilities. Over the years the life insurance business has earned a reputation for conservative, careful management in handling policyholder funds and in carrying out its policy obligations.

This record is demonstrated in the reports which each life insurance company must file every year in every state in which it is licensed to do business.

Through these reports and periodic examinations by the state authorities, the affairs of the business are an "open book" to the public.

These are among the reasons why you can count on life insurance . . . and why it is America's most widely used form of thrift.

Your life insurance and how to use it...

A life insurance program can guarantee that money will be ready when the family needs it most—in case of the father's death . . . when the children go to college . . . to meet emergencies . . . for retirement. Planning your life insurance calls for experienced help. The best person to see, of course, is your own life insurance agent.

You'll also find many helpful suggestions in the new booklet, Your Life Insurance—and How to Use It. Your free copy will be mailed promptly; simply send your name and address on a postcard to Dept. M.

Yours free!

Coleman Warns Race Issue May Wreck Democrats

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —Gov. J. P. Coleman of Mississippi has warned the Democratic Party that it may suffer defeat and death if it insults convictions of the South.

This was proven, the governor said yesterday, by the defeat of two North Carolina congressmen who refused to sign the Southern Manifesto.

The manifesto pledged 101 congressmen to resist the U.S. Supreme Court's ban on public school segregation.

Reps. Thurmond D. Chatham and Charles B. Deane did not sign. Both were defeated for reelection Saturday in North Carolina's Democratic primary.

Coleman warned:

"The action of the voters in a moderate state like North Carolina in defeating two members of Congress because of their refusal to sign the Southern Manifesto should be notice to the nation and to certain figures in the Democratic Party that the South has no intention of submitting to an unconstitutional Supreme Court decision.

"If efforts are made at the National Convention in Chicago to insult the convictions of the South in this regard, it will probably result in the worst defeat ever suffered by the Democratic Party and could be the end of the party.

"It should be well remembered that in Nov. 1952, every state carried by Adlai Stevenson was a state operating segregated schools."

Coleman, who helped keep Mississippi in the party four years ago, calls Stevenson "our best friend to date," although he has not announced support for him. The governor says Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee would be unacceptable as presidential candidates.

In recent weeks, he has opposed talk of third parties and has promised to try keeping Mississippi in the party.

Deen Operator Of West Monroe Station

Jerry Dean wishes to announce to his many friends and neighbors in West Monroe and Monroe that he has leased and is now operating the spacious Cities Service Station, 1515 Cypress, West Monroe on highway 80.

Deen extends to them the friendly, kind and efficient service that he has rendered to them during his years of service station work in the Twin Cities.

He says that he backs up his service with quality products of Cities Service.

A fine quality feature of Deen's Cities Service is pick-up and delivery service on flat tires, dead batteries, and gasoline emergencies.

For other services that Deen is proud to offer his many friends and customers, he makes an unusual statement.

Deen challenges your car or truck to knock with the Cities Service 5-Dimensional gasoline, a gasoline with five top performance features: Extra high octane, anti-carbon, anti-stalling, anti-rust, and upper cylinder lubricant.

Some gasolines have some of these feaures, Deen says, but only Cities Service has all five — and it takes all five of them to really give your car needed power.

Deen has this prescription for the motorist:

To get full advantage of the Cities Service 5-Dimensional Gasoline, use its top performance companion — 5-Dimensional Koolmotor Oil that gives you these five distinct advantages: increased gasoline mileage, increased engine power, decreased oil consumption, decreased knock and pre-ignition, and decreased engine wear.

This is an all - seasonal oil, Deen points out. Its low-30 viscosity rating covers all grades in one. When you start your car you need a performance of a 20-weight oil to resist thinning out within a hotter engine — and 15 minutes later your hot engine requires the performance of a 30-weight for cruising speed and heavy duty service.

Other necessities for your car which can be found at Deen's include the famous Cities Service Airmaster Tire, and the Cities Service Milemaster Tubeless Tire—tires with a warranty that can be purchased on your Cities Service credit card with no down payment . . . No Interest or Carrying Charge . . . Three to Six months to Pay. Tires that have a safety tread for safe driving and easy steering give a really enjoyable ride.

Accessories are available at Deen's in nationally advertised brands, such as: Pur-O-Lator Filters, Champion Spark Plugs, Westinghouse Safety Sealbeam Lamps. Deen adds that if your car needs washing, greasing, oil change or new battery, he can supply your needs. Deen has the famous Cities Service Tri-Fill Battery—one that needs water only three times a year under ordinary driving conditions.

Fred Meyer, distributor for Cities Service, in this area, welcomes Deen to his dealer organization.

House Committee Urges Holding Up New Arms Sales

WASHINGTON, May 28, (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee said yesterday large amounts of U. S. arms shipments slated for Europe should be sent elsewhere until it is "clearer" what defense policy Europe intends to follow.

The committee rapped what it called a defense letdown by some "prosperous" Western European nations, and it said the United States "cannot hope to overcome lack of zeal on the part of any nation by supplying it with equipment."

The House group set forth its views in a report to accompany the foreign aid bill, from which it cut more than a billion dollars out of the $4,900,000,000 total requested by President Eisenhower.

No specific European country was mentioned in the report. Chairman Richards (D-SC) had previously named Britain, France and West Germany as slackening in their defense efforts.

The committee said "a substantial amount" of some 3½ billion dollars of arms—earmarked for Europe under past aid programs but still undelivered — is suitable for delivery to non-European cold war front nations such as Korea, Formosa, Thailand, Pakistan, and Turkey.

U. S. Supports UN Veto

One common criticism of the United Nations is that it provides members of the Security Council with veto power on substantive questions requiring unanimous agreement in the Council. Russia has abused this veto power constantly in flouting the will of the majority of nations.

But when a subcommittee of the U. S. Senate studied the matter, the finding was that the veto power of the Security Council members should remain unimpaired. The Senators did not particularize as to reasons, but one of them sticks out plainly.

Russia used the veto power to protect its weakness in world sentiment. If Russia had not vetoed, the United Nations would have taken action contrary to the desires of Moscow. Should a majority of the nations be on Russia's side frequently in the future, the United States often might want to veto proposals inimical to the interests of this nation and the free world.

It isn't a laudable device because it restricts sharply the capacity of the nations to act cooperatively. But our own international students are convinced it is a built-in contraption for protective purposes. The time to surrender it is when the nations are far less suspicious of one another.

Ike's Pet Peeves

A national magazine reports what President Eisenhower's "intimate associates" told it were Ike's pet peeves:

1. Politicians who grab at his arms or throw their arms around his shoulders.
2. Unfeminine women, their tailored suits and their mannish haircuts.
3. Gossips and tattletales.
4. Columns.
5. Tardiness (figured by the minute).
6. Advice from amateurs.
7. Defeat.

Many of these are on the "peeves" list of most Americans. But that word "columns" is slightly baffling. Which columns doesn't he like?

Decline Of Handwriting

During recent months controversy has raged over modern methods of teaching reading in public schools. "Why can't Mary read?" is asked by the parents. And the teachers answer that she can read and she reads well for her age.

But, if Mary can read, equally important is the question, "Can Mary write?"

A metropolitan business school which gives private tutoring in shorthand and office procedure gets requests for handwriting instruction regularly.

Another business school for post high school students makes a class in handwriting compulsory for everyone who enrolls.

And a third school, where good penmanship is thought to be a prerequisite for job placement, is considering adding a penmanship course to its curricula because many adept students never even succeed in getting an interview with a prospective employer because of the poor impression created in filling out an application blank.

Many businessmen lament that fine penmanship is rare and handwriting is becoming a lost art. They know the situation well. One department store spokesman says, "Everyday we have examples of packages that have to be traced or bills that have to be adjusted because of poor writing."

Handwriting is a tool for communication and by the time a student reaches high school he should attain a standard quality of writing. But at that point writing usually gets progressively worse with age. There are long assignments to prepare and students in their haste make incomplete letters and leave words poorly spaced. Thus illegibility is born and grows.

These students later become living headaches in some business office—or at home, where the milkman has a difficult time deciphering the housewife's messages left in empty bottles.

These individuals not only have a difficult time reading someone else's scrawly script, they often cannot read their own handwriting.

Before berating the children for illegible handwriting, though, parents should take a look at their own. They, too, may be in need of some concentrated instruction.

Nation's Heroic Dead

Memorial Day has become a day which seems to signal the start of the summer holiday season at resorts and other spots. But, at home or away, few people fail to give thought in some measure to the purpose for which the day is set apart—the remembrance and honoring of the nation's military dead. Many also take it as an occasion to visit graves of their loved ones who never wore uniforms.

Memorial Day had its beginning in what seems to have been a spontaneous gesture in several communities following the end of the Civil War. After Lee's surrender flowers were placed on war graves in widely scattered towns and cities throughout the war-weary states. The first formal move for these tributes came in 1868 when Maj. Gen. John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, called on his followers to decorate the graves of their comrades. Rhode Island, acting in 1874, was the first state to set Decoration Day apart as a legal holiday.

Only four men who fought in the Civil War were alive on the eve of Memorial Day, 1956. One was a Union veteran; the others fought for the South. And even as the Blue and Gray lines have faded with the years so have the ranks of the survivors of later wars been thinned by time. Of every five men who fought in the Spanish-American War only one is alive today. One of every three Americans in uniform during World War I is dead as is one in every nine who fought in World War II.

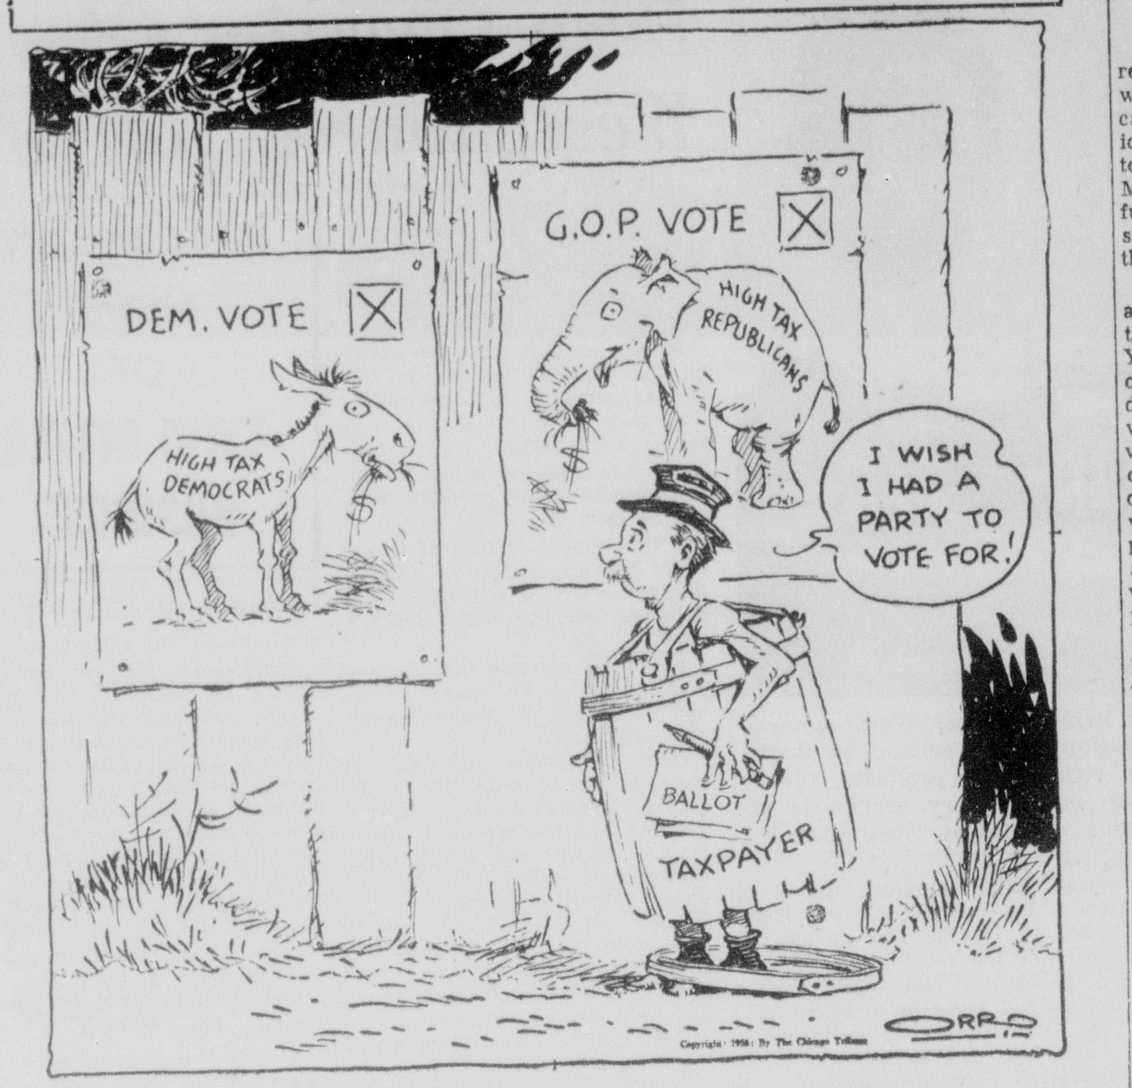
As the ranks of survivors of one war finally thin to nothingness there are the fading lines from another conflict to take their places. Such is the history of our times.

The time was when Memorial Day was called just as often by its other name, Decoration Day. It may occur to the older citizen, on looking back, that perhaps the alternate name gave more dramatic significance to the day, was perhaps more easily evocative of the mood suited to the purpose for which it was set aside.

The name Decoration Day was of itself a reminder to young and old alike that the season had come for setting out spring flowers and small flags on the graves of the nation's heroes, that the occasion was one not exclusively for picnics or a visit to the local ball park.

It would not be inappropriate at this time to rededicate ourselves to the older and more meaningful custom.

DISFRANCHISED AMERICAN



'Court' Deprives States Of Rights

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The most unspectacular and yet the most sensational news happening of our times is the manner in which the 48 state governments are being deprived of their rights by the Supreme Court of the United States.

The latest decision, rendered this week, takes away from the states their power to regulate employment relations. It takes away from the worker his freedom of association and freedom of expression as an individual — his civil rights — and puts them at the mercy of an intolerant majority in Congress. He must join a union or be deprived of a job with the railroads. Minority rights, which from the foundation of the Republic have been safeguarded by the Constitution, now are to be vested in a political majority in Congress.

Justice Frankfurter, who wrote an opinion concurring in the decision, makes no bones about it — he virtually acknowledges that the Supreme Court is a political body which changes its views with the whims of popular opinion and he lauds this as a virtue.

In discussing the 60-year history of the fight for and against compulsory unionization, Mr. Frankfurter reviews the criticisms against early court decisions and traces the various opinions handed down. Then he says:

"The change in the court's understanding of industrial problems, certainly as they affect railroads, in their bearing upon the country's commerce and all that thereby hangs, to no small degree reflected the changed attitude of the railroads toward the role of labor unions in the discharge of the functions of the railroads. As striking evidence as any of this important shift in opinion is the fact that the Railway Labor Act of 1926 came on the statute books through agreement between the railroads and the railroad unions on the need for such legislation."

Here is a confession that the Supreme Court nowadays doesn't consider what the Constitution says but what private interests, powerful in politics, may agree upon as between themselves. The famous "code authority" provision of the National Recovery Act, which permitted agreements to be made between management and labor, was struck down by a unanimous opinion of the Supreme Court in 1935 precisely because the nine justices believed the public interest was greater under the Constitution than any agreements made between private interests such as labor and management even though Congress sanctioned those agreements.

Mr. Frankfurter, however, feels that if employers in an industry get together with labor unions to form a job monopoly and decide to deprive anyone of a job unless he belongs to a union, this is a worthy objective. He hints that he would uphold the constitutionality of a law on that particular provision if it came before him. But he claims for the record, of course, that the Supreme Court "put to one side" such situations in the case decided this week.

Actually, it was before the court, but the nine justices chose technical grounds for shutting their eyes to the issue altogether. It is plain to see the handwriting on the wall — minority rights are vanishing, and whatever law Congress decides to enact hereafter to regulate employment relations will become "the supreme law of the land" in the eyes of the present court.

In writing the main opinion, Justice Douglas in behalf of the other justices says: "Congress, acting within its constitutional powers has the final say on policy issues. If it acts unwisely, the electorate can make a change."

But when the Supreme Court endows Congress with greater power than the Constitution bestows and euphemistically calls it just a "policy," the electorate can't change their Supreme Court. Unless, therefore, the court whose judges now concede that they are influenced by the pressures of popular opinion, takes heed of public criticism, certain constitutional rights will be lost for the period that an unwise or irresponsible court holds office.

"One would have to be blind to history," says Justice Douglas, "to assert that trade unionism did not enhance and strengthen the right to work."

This is a frank avowal of the concept of expediency, — the Machiavellian Doctrine that the end justifies the means. Other justices — the men who made the Supeme Court the respected institution it has been for decades—did not fall victim to political expediency. They expounded the Constitution in accordance with legal and not political concepts and never allowed Congress to grant permissive power to private economic groups to take away minority rights. It was in May 1935 when a unanimous court headed by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes knocked out the expediency argument by declaring: "extraordinary conditions do not create or enlarge constitutional power."

And the same court could properly have added that a change in political or sociological conditions or in the tides of public opinion does not change the Constitution of the United States unless Congress by a two-thirds vote of both Houses and three-fourths of the states of the Union say so in approving an amendment to the Constitution itself.

The Two-Party System

By Henry McLemore

The other day I was polishing the cup I was awarded for shallow thinking some few years back, when it occurred to me that it was time I took a look at the political scene.

With primaries popping all over, the political conventions coming up soon, and the presidential election itself not too far away, it seemed a perfect time for my type of mind to do a little probing.

For a beginning, let us take a look at the two-party system we have in this country. In the event their names have slipped your mind, they are known as the Democratic and the Republican parties. To complete the briefing, the Democrats and the Republicans employ the donkey and the elephant, respectively, as symbols.

The two-party system has proved amazingly effective in this country. It has outlasted many totalitarian systems, and no end of monarchies, benevolent and otherwise.

This success is amazing, when you stand up and think about it. It's a wonder that the two-party method provides good government, because its very existence depends on the party in power not satisfying the people.

If, say, the Democrats made enough people happy when they had possession of the White House, they'd stay in the place until the termites ate it down. The same is true of the Republicans. Two parties can only exist if one misbehaves and gives the other a reason for demanding that it be thrown out.

Therefore—and I consider this a jolly fine piece of reasoning—if the leaders of the two parties believe in our system—and they must—then, they should not raise such a fuss when the "in" party makes a few mistakes.

Instead of criticizing, the party should say, "Well done, fellows! By botching things, you are helping to make sure that the two-party system will survive."

But the party leaders don't do this. For proof, one only has to listen to Adlai, Estes, and Ave. They're acting as if they were made about the mistakes they say the Republicans have made since 1952. They don't seem to realize that if it were not for these alleged mistakes, they wouldn't have a Chinaman's chance of ever sleeping in the Lincoln Room, or listening to a band concert in the Blue Room, without having to be invited.

Now, while my mind is tearing along like a Model T on a country road, let's take a look at the farm situation.

Are the farmers being treated right, or do they have a just complaint? My answer here will not be guesswork, but will be based on first-hand knowledge. I happen to be a farmer. Not on any grandiose scale, to be sure, but my ten tomato plants, my eight-foot row of corn, and my lettuce bed, are just as important to me as if they covered thousands of acres.

I'm pretty happy. The neighbors with the dog that roots in the ground have gone away for the summer, taking the dog. That means more to me and my farm than any Soil Bank. My scarecrow is working on the birds, too. And the birds who aren't scared of the scarecrow are taking a pretty good beating from our cats, George and Christine.

Every other tomato plant seems to be holding its own against the elements, and that's a pretty good average for my sort of farming.

All in all, I'd say we farmers are doing all right. Of course, if the government wants to send me a handsome check to plow under any surplus lettuce I have, I'll be glad to.

Old Tribal Ways, Customs

By Hal Boyle

PINEY GROVE, N. C. (AP)—Time is winning a slow victory over Mrs. Aggie Lossiah, custodian of a dying past.

Aggie, who is going on 76, is one of the few remaining Cherokee Indian women with a first-hand knowledge of old tribal ways and customs.

As a young girl, Mrs. Lossiah, now a widow, walked 170 miles across the mountains to set up housekeeping on a small hill-side farm where she has lived more than half a century.

Sitting on the cabin porch, her stockinged feet comfortably stretched out to feel a cooling breeze, Aggie said gravely:

"It's all gone to the modern times. Things are changing just as fast as they can change."

The honk of a motor car echoed up from a modern highway where stumbling oxen once plodded. The sound stirred Aggie to reverie.

"We sold our last ox to send our oldest boy off to college," she remarked.

Aggie and her husband raised eight children and five of their grandchildren.

"I got so many grandchildren I can't count them," she said.

Mrs. Lossiah is full of ancient Cherokee hill lore. She used to make her own soap. She still knows the art of making such Indian delicacies as bean bread, possum grape drink and meat skin soup. She knows how to brew the native herb remedies—ginseng for colic, boneset for pneumonia, wild cherry for measles, Christmas fern for fever.

"But when people get sick now they run to the doctor to get a pill," she remarked. "I never had a doctor until this spring, when I spent a spell in the hospital."

Aggie didn't want to go to a hospital. She had to be talked into it. She has no desire to adjust to modern times, has a deep contempt for new kitchen gadgets. She never has had a home with central heating. She still prefers to cook her meals in an iron pot in her fireplace.

"I don't like a stove," Aggie said. "I wouldn't live in a house without a fireplace.

"Food tastes better cooked in an iron pot in a fireplace than in an aluminum pot on a stove.

"Women today seem to think they have a better life because they don't have anything to do. But I think folks were happier in my day when they worked harder.

"In my day a girl knew how to hoe corn. . .to make a garden. . . to dige in the dirt like a man. Many even knew how to drive oxen and plow the field.

"Now it seems like girls are afraid to work out in the fields with their parents. There're a lot of changes."

Aggie's dark eyes smiled as she watched one of her chickens in the front yard scratch idly at the grass.

"It was root hog or die poor with me," she mused. "and I do believe I'll die poor. But I got a little place to call my own. . .a shelter. . .and that's all I care about. I have all I need."

As I got up to leave, Aggie asked where I lived. When I told her I came from New York City, she nodded and said politely:

"Is it a big city? I've heard of it, yes, I've heard of it. I heard it's a terribly muddy place'."

'A Darling Project'

By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK, May 28 — The 1955 report of Webb and Knapp, Inc., was just out so I walked over and called on William Zeckendorf, president, in his circular office on the top floor of the new building on Madison avenue, to learn what the future holds for us. You will be surprised! To me, "frustrated" is the appropriate word.

Mr. Zeckendorf is going to build a sort of floor over much of the thirties on the west side of New York where the ground level slopes off to the Hudson river to a total decline of 40 feet, and proceed with the stupendous job which he was going to do on the limited area of the old Penn station but abandoned last year. He backed off when he learned by expensive experienc that it couldn't be done, admittedly "a set-back" as he wrote last February, in "a daring project."

"We invested more than a million dollars," he said, "in exploration, engineering and research. The magnitude of it was without precedent. We finally concluded that the additional cost of building over the (Pennsylvania) tracks, amounting to $45,000,000 just for footings and foundations, over and beyond conventional costs, together with a $30,000,000 land cost, made the project economically infeasible.

"But we became certain of the wisdom of the basic plan for the Palace of Progress and decided to go forward on a horizontal basis."

And do not smirk at that, because this Mr. Z. is just the one to go forward horizontally.

"This new concept involves approximately 40 acres on the far west side on land held principally by one owner, the New York Central. Thus, the first studies were successful in the sense that the second conception evolved out of them. Our idea, which could not be successfully developed on nine acres, can be accomplished on a larger area and with a better long-term effect for the city in the matter of blighted areas with important new improvements under one master plan.

"Private capital projects like ours seek no favor or subsidy. The only alternative is semi-socialistic 'authorities.' These usually are self-perpetuating political cells above the control of the citizenry. They have the right of eminent domain, the right to issue securities on a tax - exempt basis and, in the end, pay no income tax. Many are competing with private enterprise. If private capital does not do these jobs, the 'authorities' will take them over.

Mr. Zeckendorf's circular office is a veritable barrel without windows or portholes set within an enormous room. His desk is made of thick glass and curved like a newspaper copy - desk and he as the conventional executive's talk-back box which answers "Yes sir?" when the conventional executive flips a lever and asks, "Joe, that Abbadegab job was four million, wasn't it?"

These talk-back boxes are a marvel of electronics, but the wizards have not been able to accomplish one thing. They can't teach them to pronounce any figure under a million. They give a sort of lisp.

Mr. Zeckendorf is a great hunk of man reminiscent of the Zbyszko brothers who wrestled other Poles and Italians and a snorting succession of terrible Turks named Yusruff, from Madison Square to the Golden Gate in the era of wonderful nonsense.

Although his office has facilities for soothing his psyche in soft lights like the pastel rays of a musical comedy, this investment seems to have been a waste. For he is always getting up and barging through the big doors in the walls of his barrel and charging into strange rooms and other strange rooms beyond and beyond where men and women are making blueprints and photostats of plans and projections, or conferring in fierce concentration. He pauses here and there in mid-flight to snatch up a phone and talk. The men and women spring to their feet as he comes through like soldiers. in the Pentagon.

A dark - haired girl namel Mary intercepted us now and again on this wild swing through trackless suites, and I said, "How in the world do you ever get any work done?" She said, "Oh, this is the way we work."

The plan to rebuild the drab and ratty zone of midtown New York is so grand that I screamed Mr. Zeckdorf for a pass at his age to speculate whether he would live long enough to lay the cornerstone.

"Oh, four years will see it done," he said, rushing on to a scale model of the revised version of Denver. He is doing Denver over, and a good deal of Louisiana, as well.

"Denver is no good," I said. "A parasite town full of dead-weight bureaucrats."

"Not any more," he said. "Industry. Electronics. Precision stuff A great town now!'

There is a wide red stripe across Manhattan a little below midtown on a chart on Mr. Z's wall. That is the moving sidewalk which will take multitudes from Third avenue on the east side to the colossal palace where conventions and exhibitions will be held, superimposed on the west side right of way of the New York Central, which surmount the Pennsylvania's tunnel and tracks. Three minutes and you will be there. Stand, or sit, as you please.

There will be parking space for 20,000 cars underground on three levels.

Crazy! Did he know how long it would take to move 20,000 cars in New York traffic?

"Oh, but we are going to double-deck the west side highway next year and with all those new arterial roads reaching in all directions except out to sea we will loosen up the jams."

In Rome last fall a New York lady surveyed the great biscuit-colored square at the front of the Quirinale Palace, with the beautiful stairs falling away in graceful, sweeping descent.

"What that Zeckendorf would do with this wasted space," she sighel.

What is Zeckendorf's purpose anyway?

Why must so much be concentrated on Manhattan Island and the tributary suburbs with a world of space a few miles away

That was where my frustration set in. Mr. seems never to doubt. He asks not even "can it be done" but only "how soon" and tears into the job of doing it.

Demo Rat-Race Seen

By Fulton Lewis

WASHINGTON—The present outlook, rapidly becoming more sharply defined, is that the Democratic National Convention in Chicago this August will be the worst such rat-race in many, many years.

Not only is a prolonged deadlock looming, with innumerable time-consuming ballots, but the mechanical details, such as assignment of hotel rooms and other preliminary work, probably will be loused up, too.

The fly in the ointment turns out to be Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and widely known as an opinionated individual.

It was Butler's high-handed attitude that he knew more about the mechanical aspects of the convention than anyone else, that brought on the resignation of William Neal Roach, convention manager.

The fact that Neal Roach had served as convention manager in both 1952 and 1948, was assistant manager in 1944 and had been a member of the convention committee since he finished high school in 1929, apparently cut no ice with Butler.

Butler, in Buler's opinion, knew better than Roach how things should be run, even though his membership on the national committee began only in 1952 and his chairmanship in December, 1954.

In any event, it was an angry flare-up between the two that resulted in Roach's unexpected resignation. Hostility between the two, however, had been building up for some time because of Butler's consant interference in Roach's planning. For example, I have heard recently of instances where Roach had promised certain hotel accommodations only to have Butler countermand his orders.

Roach, as a matter of fact, had established an excellent reputation for the competency of his managerial work. The general opinion among newsmen who covered both party sessions in 1948 and 1952, including Fulton Lewis jr., is that both times the over-all planning and mechanical arrangements on the Democratic side were better than on the Republican.

Butler is a highly controversial figure within his own party. He insists that he is neutral as between the various Democratic presidential aspirants, but nevertheless is widely regarded as an Adlai Sevenson man.

Stephen Mitchell, who was installed as national committee chairman by Stevenson at the outset of the 1952 campaign, resigned from that post in December, 1954, at a committee meeting in New Orleans. Butler was Mitchell's hand-picked successor, but it required a maximum of maneuvering by Mitchell to put him across.

One of the main reasons was that Butler, who hails from South Bend, Ind., had been feuding for several years within his home state with a group led by Frank McKinney, who was President Truman's choice as committee chairman when the latter was in the White House.

Mr. Truman stayed far away from the New Orleans meeting, but committee members regarded as his spokesmen toiled diligently, but unsuccessfully, in behalf of Michael V. DiSalle, the roy-poly Price administrator under Mr. Truman.

For one, I do not have as much confidence in Butler's untested managerial ability as I had in Roach's time-proven capacities. A week or more at a national political convention can become hectic if the schedules and arrangements are not well-programmed, even covering unexpected contingencies.

Little Theater Run Ends With 'The Rainmaker'

By GEORGE BRIAN

With "The Rainmaker," one of the best American comedies to be written in the past several years, the Little Theater of Monroe is at present closing its 1955-56 season. A fine standard for non-professional theater was set and maintained throughout the various plays presented by the Little Theater this year. The current run of "The Rainmaker" definitely continues the tradition.

As to the members of the cast, they were generally beyond reproach in their ability to bring the play to life and keep it moving.

Kay Causey as the plain young girl, Lizzie Curry, who experiences a rebirth of emotions is challenged with a part that calls for just about everything an actress can give it. She is very capable of obtaining the sympahty that her role must receive from the audience. Only occasionally does over - projection interfere with shading of meaning and speed of tempo interfere with normality of action. Kay has achieved an exceptionally good characterization for Lizzie.

Randy Rainwater, as Bill Starbuck the rainmaker, has the problem of playing a "con" man who possesses sincere motives. He fraudulently passes himself off as a rainmaker, but really wants to bring rain; he makes passes at Lizzie, but truly falls in love with her. Randy brings a very lively and acceptable Starbuck to the stage of the Little Theater. His appearence of confidence might be more easily established with greater ease of gesture and a smoother flowing language pattern. His tall, slender appearance is very suitable for the role; his face perhaps a little youthful to have accomplished all that is claimed for the rainmaker.

According to audience response, the most popular characterization of the play is that of the stupid but goodhearted brother, Jim Curry, who is portrayed by Skippy Portman. Most of the time Skippy has the audience in the palm of his hand and is rewarded with many appropriate laughs. His youthful enthusiasm is detrimental in one respect, which is the occasional jarring of the attractively painted Magruder landscape with particularly hasty exits.

The father, H. C. Curry, is played by Ralph Bird with a certain steadiness of patience common to climate ridden rural folk. A little more rustic flavor might give him a stronger position in the cast.

Noah Curry, the overworked, business-minded, practical brother, is acted by Dick Troy, Jr. His is perhaps the most consistent performance in the play.

File, the deputy sheriff, is played by J. J. Barnes, who shows unusual understanding of a first stage role.

Sheriff Thomas looks very much the law official in the person of Bill Eason. From time to time his enunciation falters, making his words hard to understand.

Concerning some of the overall effects, mention must be made of the skillfully handled fight scenes, the amazing simultaneous setting, beautifully and appropriately constructed into three parts, and the use of segment lighting for scene changes. The lighting of the landscape beyond the back window is badly shadowed. Consistent use of loud projection seems overdone in such a small auditorium. The somewhat "tinny" thunder at the end of the play does not matter too much because the audience is joyful at the prospect of the coming rain.

"The Rainmaker," under the direction of Ivan Uttal, is a fine production, well done and well staged. If the past season is an indication of the coming one, everyone in the Monroe area will want to be a Little Theater member next year. The present play will continue to run through Wednesday evening.

Instruction Starts At Monroe Police Academy

By RECA JASPER
Staff Writer

Criminals hereafter should give Monroe a wide berth.

This city already has a record of one of the lowest crime rates in the country and the police department intends to keep and even better, that achievement.

With that aim, the Monroe Police Academy Monday opened its doors and started classes to supply the city police force with well-trained officers.

Eleven "rookie" policemen, who plan to make police work their life profession, started lessons in criminal work Monday at the new police school at Selman field.

Sgt. George Whitlow is director of the school and is assisted by Patrolman W. F. Johnson. The U. S. Army Reserve officers training building has been loaned for the school headquarters.

The students attend class for eight hours each day, Monday through Friday, and one day each week will practice special on-the-job training.

The men, who range in age from 21 to 29, are receiving a small salary from the police department now and will be placed on the Monroe police force as provisional officers upon graduation.

"When he is 'confirmed' or approved, the graduate will be placed on regular status with the Monroe police department," Sgt. Whitlow said.

Attending the school are Grover D. Glasscock, Dan Jackson, E. E. Robinson, Fred Grant, Charles Tarver, C. D. Dulany, Eddie Ratcliff, Leo Earl, Leo Pardue, P. L. Hendricks, Jr., and Charles E. Sowell.

All of the men passed physical and mental tests before they were accepted as rookie policemen.

They will be taught how to fire a pistol, using the pistol range at Selman Feild.

The future policemen will complete 39 courses that include everything from note taking to scientific aid to criminal investigations.

Some of the subjects and instructors selected are political science taught by W. C. Honeycutt, former professor of history at Northeast Louisiana State college; geography of the city by Luther T. (Dick) Harper, city engineer; criminal code of Louisiana by William McKinley, a local lawyer; and first aid by Benny Wilson, local emergency ambulance driver.

Other instructors will include members of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Louisiana state police, city police department and other law enforcement officers and associated agencies.

The Monroe city council passed a resolution calling for the academy at a meeting March 13 of this year.

Sgt. Whitlow summed up the purpose of the police academy with this statement, "The academy will offer young men a professional career in law enforcement and will instill within each officer the seriousness of the profession he has chosen."

After the invocation to be made by William Gannaway, Monroe city school board member, the 1956 graduates will recognize their class sponsor, members of the Monroe city school board and other guests.

Frank Breece, master of ceremonies, will present a reminiscent skit of older school days. The graduates, under the direction of Miss Dawson Ann Forman will also present a skit in honor of the first graduating class of the then new Neville High School in 1932.

Mrs. Alice Cobb Allen, chairman of the nominating committee for 1957 alumni officers to succeed Mrs. McCue and Mrs. Dorothy Apgar Hodge, secretary-treasurer will make her report at the conclusion of the banquet festivities. Mrs. McCue, alumni president, said this will be one of the largest banquets honoring graduates and alumni, which reflects the loyality for the school felt by all former students.

Save Your Life When In Swimming, Urges Wood

Americans should plan now to get off their patios and do a lot more swimming this year, Charles A. Wood, Jr. of the Monroe — West Monroe YMCA said Monday.

"Most of us just don't get as much exercise as we need," he stated. "In fact, we Americans are being called the softest people in the world because of our easy-going living habits."

Mr. Wood emphasized that doctors recommend a daily program of body conditioning for people of all ages. "Regular exercise can help us avoid completely, or postpone for 15 years, such common symptoms of growing old as chronic fatigue, headaches, shortness of breath, digestive upset, overweight and some forms of heart and circulatory trouble.

"The secret of sustained youth," Mr. Wood said, "is to open up blood vessels by physical activity and use them more. The method: regular, rhythmic exercises to raise your metabolism, strengthen your heart, keep a high volume of blood flowing, and make your muscles demand more oxygen and nutrients.

"Swimming is about the best all-around body conditioner there is, Mr. Wood added. The easy, rhythmic swimming movements stimulate a healthy flow of blood. This improves your heart and lungs. Water buoys you up so you don't even have to fight the strain of your body's weight. And swimming in cool water tones up the body generally. That's why swimming relaxes you and invigorates you at the same time."

In addition to swimming more this summer, Mr. Wood urged that people learn to swim better. "Most water accidents involve poor swimmers rather than non-swimmers. So you'll be much safer, and have a lot more fun, if you really 'waterproof' yourself," he said.

Wood pointed out that the National YMCA has pioneered in water safety techniques since 1885 and teaches approximately 360,000 people how to swim each year.

He outlined 13 basic rules for water safety. Parents would do well to review these important basic rules as a family, he suggested. Youngsters especially, should be taught to respect and obey them at all times. The rules follow:

1. Pick a safe place to swim. Swim only at protected pools and beaches, and obey those warning signs. Never swim alone. There's security as well as fun in numbers. Make sure there's a qualified lifeguard present at all times.

2. Don't misjudge your swimming ability. Especially if you're a once-a-year swimmer with short breath and unconditioned muscles. Know how far you can swim under various weather and water conditions. Then keep within these safe limits.

3. Never dive into unknown water. You might literally end up a "stick in the mud." Before you dive, test the depth of the water and check the condition of the bottom. Look out for dangerous rocks, broken bottles, sharp tin cans. Keep away from weeds, pads, and grass too. They're dangerous entanglements. You can't tell current drags from the surface. So be sure to check this before swimming. And if you happen to get caught in a strong current swim across it, never against it.

4. Rest, relax and cool off after hard exercise before you go swimming. Plunging into cold water when fatigued or overheated increases your blood pressure and might cause your muscles to cramp.

5. Don't be a water show-off. Horseplay in the water is about as funny as a broken bone.

6. Avoid swimming in heavy surf or under a water fall. Aside from its strong pull this kind of water is aerated and thus lighter, less able to support your body.

7. Always race toward the shore or parallel to it, never away from shore. Pick your distance. Make sure it's a shorter stretch than you usually swim.

8. Beware of water wings, old inner tubes, rafts and inflated rubber or plastic animals. These objects frequently spring leaks. There's also the danger that children might ride them into deep water and fall off them.

9. If you can't swim, stay out of small boats. And if you're in a boat that overturns, hang onto it, as it will float. Don't dive off a small boat. It might tip and spill your companions. Or you might come up under the hull and injure yourself seriously. Instead, slide into the water. If you're alone, swim with a grip on the tow line. And never overload a boat. If the hull is more than a third under water your boat is carrying too much weight.

10. Don't take a sailboat out unless you are a good swimmer and understand sailing. Landlubbers cause many accidents. A chance wind can take you miles away from help. And the inexperienced sailor always runs the risk of overturning his boat.

11. Avoid swimming during electrical storms. Stay out of open boats; keep off beaches and fields. Don't take shelter under trees, either. If exposed it's best to lie flat on the ground. Safest place during electrical storms are houses, automobiles, under steel bridges.

12. When attempting a rescue, stay out of the water if at all possible. Try to reach the person with a pole, with clothing or a rope. Or throw him something buoyant. Don't try to be a swim-rescue hero unless it is the only way skilled in the knowledge of live-saving.

13. Last, and most important of all: if you're in trouble in the water, force yourself to keep calm. Cramps don't cause drowning — panic is the danger. Cling to an overturned boat or some buoyant object. Comparatively small things will support you in the water if you just keep calm and take advantage of your body's natural buoyancy. It's actually harder to sink than to stay up. In short, Mr. Wood summarized, make water safety a regular family habit this summer.

Four Accidents Occur Fast Here

A rash of accidents — four in a 25-minute period — kept policemen busy Sunday afternoon following a heavy downpour. No one was injured and the vehicles were only slightly damaged.

First of the four accidents occured at the intersection of 18th street and Louisville avenue about 4:30 p. m. A vehicle driven by Billy Hugham, 28, 3306 Concordia street, Monroe, traveling south on 18th street, collided with an auto driven by Billy J. Fain, 21, Route 1, Winnsboro. Fain was making a right hand turn off Louisville avenue, officers said.

About one minute later two other vehicles collided at the traffic light at South second street and Texas Avenue. An auto driven by Cecil O. Stadter, 50, of 609 S. Second, was stopped for a red light at the intersection when a vehicle driven by Joe Forrest Hibbard 42, 110 Vernon street, collided with the rear of the Stadter auto.

No major damage was done, officers stated. Third of the series of accidents occurred approximately 20 minutes later at the intersection of Layton and Hall streets.

The collision involved Isaac C. Turner, 15, 3806 East Gayton driving an auto west on Layton and Gordon A. Bernice, 23, 804 North fourth street, traveling east on Layton.

The fourth accident came about 5 minutes later involving Mrs. Gladis J. Whitfield, 49, of 3009 S. Grand street and H. C. Loyd, 53, 321 S. Grand street.

The Loyd vehicle, according to police, ran a stop sign in front of the Whitfield auto, smashing the Whitfield auto into a one-way sign on the opposite side of the street.

No injuries were reported in any of the accidents and damage to all vehicles did not exceed over $600, according to reports.

Public Welfare Plan Depends On U. S. Senate

An increase in Federal participation in the public welfare programs of the states was said today by Louisiana Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman to be largely dependent upon action in the Senate on a proposed amendment to the Social Security Act.

The House last year passed legislation broadening and extending Social Security coverage, and a similar measure has been awaiting action in the Senate. The amendment providing for the assistance payment increases was scheduled to be offered when the bill reached the Senate Floor.

Under the proposed plan, the Federal government would provide $42.50 and the state $22.50 on a $65 old-age payment.

Congressman Passman explained that approval of the amendment would result in an increase of old-age assistance checks in Louisiana by $7.50 monthly. Provision is made that the states must maintain their present level of financial participation in the program, if they are to receive the extra Federal grants.

The additional Federal costs of such a program have been estimated at around $200 million annually. Representative Passman said the expense could be provided for through a "relatively small portion of the savings we hope to achieve" by curtailing foreign aid spending. He said that as chairman of the committee handling the foreign aid money bill, he was presently "working vigorously to reduce the appropriation again this year."

150 ANNIVERSARY
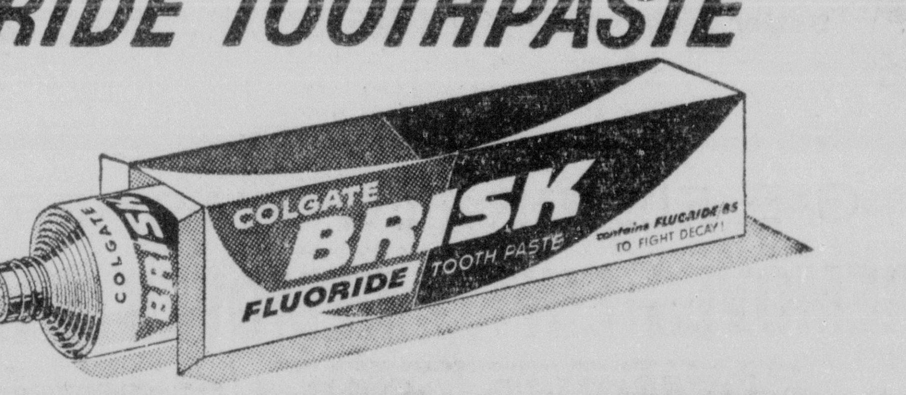
1956

With more years of research ... more study and experimentation ... more major contributions to dental hygiene during the past 79 years than any other company in the world, COLGATE—WORLD LEADER IN TOOTHPASTES—NOW ANNOUNCES

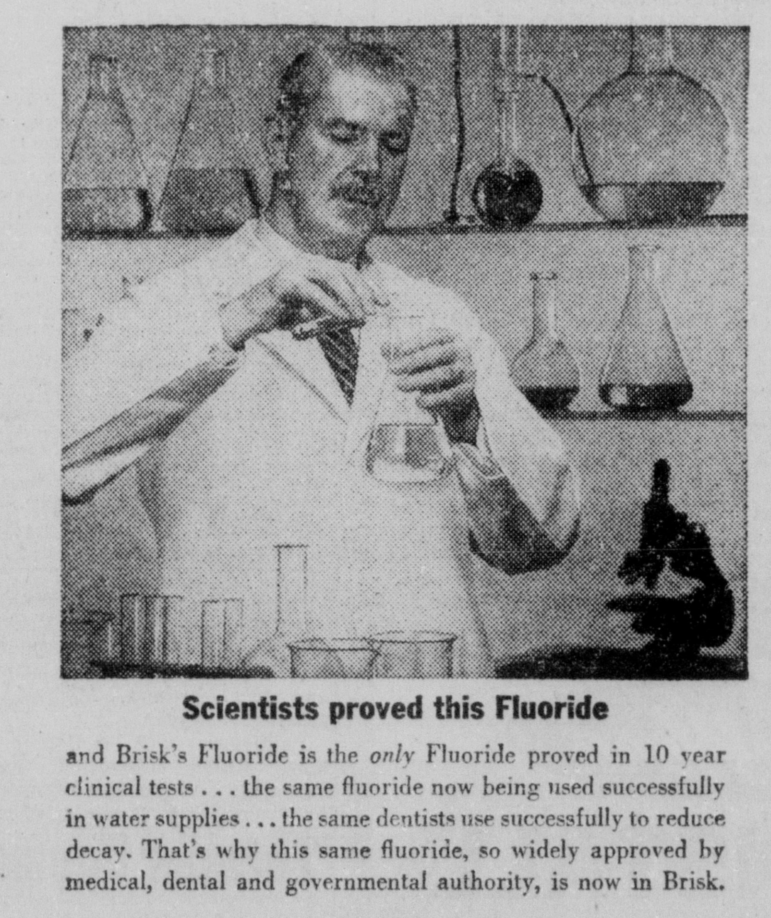
COLGATE BRISK* FLUORIDE TOOTHPASTE



COLGATE BRISK FLUORIDE TOOTH PASTE
Contains FLUORIDE/85 TO FIGHT DECAY

Contains the ONLY FLUORIDE proved in 10 years of clinical tests

HARDENS TOOTH ENAMEL, MAKES TEETH STRONGER starts working instantly TO DEFEAT DECAY



Scientists proved this Fluoride

and Brisk's Fluoride is the only Fluoride proved in 10 year clinical tests ... the same fluoride now being used successfully in water supplies ... the same dentists use successfully to reduce decay. That's why this same fluoride, so widely approved by medical, dental and governmental authority, is now in Brisk.

Benefits both adults and children

Brisk's Fluoride/85, Colgate's exclusive new formula, helps protect all permanent teeth whether in adults or children over six. Brisk's Fluoride is instantly released ... works on contact as you brush your teeth ... strengthens tooth enamel as no other decay-preventive ever could.

Works even while you eat, drink or sleep because Brisk's Fluoride/85 not only gives you wonder-working Fluoride to strengthen tooth enamel, but provides a second, tested decay-fighter that starts working instantly ... keeps working all day against the formation of decay-acids. Unless you get Brisk, you cannot get the benefits of Fluoride/85.

Only BRISK has FLUORIDE/85, gives extra protection Fluoride alone can't give ... works best where you need it most Brisk's Fluoride actually concentrates in weak or "soft" spots where decay usually starts — combines with tooth enamel, becomes part of the tooth itself — thus protects as no other decay-fighter can. And Brisk's new, stay-active decay-fighter reaches into tight crevices between teeth — into food-traps where decay acids form — starts working instantly to defeat a major cause of decay.

WONDERFUL FLAVOR!
Helps keep breath fresh all day!
And there's no "tinny" aftertaste with new Brisk! Your mouth tastes sparkling cool and sweet! Brings out all the natural whiteness of teeth!

RUSTON, May 28 (Special) — "Sonata for Violin and Piano," composed by a member of the Louisiana Tech music faculty, hightlighted a concert presented recently by the Composers Group of New York in Carnegie Hall.

Negro Publisher, Visiting Monroe, Hits Integration

The Negro publisher of a Northern newspaper, in Louisiana the past two weeks to conduct a survey of racial conditions, said here Monday he found "very little" racial tension in the Twin Cities.

Davis Lee, publisher of the Newark, N. J. "Telegram" and an outspoken opponent of forced integration, said the Negroes here appeared "concerned" about the recent voting disqualifications, but that on the whole the racial relations appeared to be good.

Lee, whose editorial comments have been quoted on several occasions in the Congressional Record, arrived in Louisiana about two weeks ago to investigate conditions, and came to Monroe Saturday.

During the time he has been here, Lee said, he has found "a lot of Negro businesses here that show Negroes do have an opportunity in Monroe just like anybody else."

He also commended Carroll High school, saying it is "a credit to the community and to the state."

The Negro publisher came recommended by Gov. Earl K. Long, who in a letter of introduction said of Lee: "I hope and believe that his material will make it clear to the good colored people that they are better treated, given more recognition and are more appreciated as human beings in the South than they are in the East or in the Middle West."

Of the racial situation, Lee himself said: "I believe that if these agitators succeeded in obtaining everything they have asked for they would gain nothing if they lose the friendship of the white people."

He said that while he is on his survey in Louisiana he is visitng leaders of neither the anti-segregation or the pro-segregation groups, preferring to receive his information from those not officially connected with either side.

"I don't believe Monroe or any other place in the south has a problem that can't be solved if Negroes and white people would sit down and work somehing out," he said.

Lee said he will be in Monroe until Tuesday afternoon, and will go from here to Shreveport.

Report On Experiment Reveals

White Clover Yields Gain In Test With Plant Foods

A study has been made of the relationships of sulfur, magnesium and phosphorus in the nutrition of white clover in a greenhouse experiment and the relationships of sulfur, magnesium and phosphorus in the nutrition of a mixture of rye grass, white clover and Dallis grass grown under field conditions, the State Extension Service reports.

Treatments of dolomitic lime and sulfur with superphosphate, with treble superphosphate and with fused tricalcium phosphate in the greenhouse experiment gave significantly higher yields of clover than those obtained from dolomitic lime with superphosphate, with treble superphosphate and with fused tricalcium posphate with sulfur.

The highest yield of clover in the greenhouse experiment was obtained from pots receiving calcium carbonate with superphosphate. This yield was significantly higher than the yield obtained from all other treatments except the treatments containing sulfur and dolomitic lime with treble superphosphate. Additions of sulfur to calcium carbonate with three sources of phsophorus had no affect on the yields of clover.

In the field experiment with a mixture of rye grass, white clover and Dallis grass, dolomitic lime with superphosphate gave a significantly higher yield of forage than did dolmitic lime with calcium metaphosphate or dolomitic lime with treble superphosphate.

The highest yield in the field experiment was obtained on plots receiving sulfur and calcium carbonate with calcium metaphosphate. This yield was not sigificantly higher than the yield obtained from the treatment containing calcium carbonate with calcium metaphosphate nor was it significantly higher than the yield obtained from the treatment carrying dolomitic lime with superphosphate.

A high degree of association was found between the absorption of added sulfur and native soil magnesium in the field experiment.

Plant analysis data in the field experiment show that increases in magnesium absorption were associated with increases in phosphorus absorption.

A high degree of association between magnesium and phosphorus was obtained with treatments receiving calcium metaphosphate, fused tricalcium phosphate and raw rock phosphate in the field experiment.

The highly significant positive correlations between the absorption of magnesium and sulfur where sulfure was added with treble super phosphate and with fused tricalcium phosphate show that sulfur was associated with the activation of native soil magnesium.

The highly significant correlation between the absorption of phosphorous and magnesium where dolomitic lime was added with treble superphosphate in the greenhouse experiment shows that magnesium facilitate the absorption of phosphorus carried by treble superphosphate. Added magnesium increased the association between megnesium and phosphorus when the availability of fertilizer phosphorus was high.

Applied magnesium decreased the association between the absorption of sulfur and phosphorus. Added sulfur increased the association between the absorption of greenhouse experiment. Added sulfur increased the association between the absorption of magnesium and phosphorus when the availability of fertilizer phosphorus was less than the availability of phosphorus in trebel superphosphate.

PRODUCTION PROBLEM—Chickens generate a great deal of heat in the poultry house, an element which when combined with rising summer temperatures can help bring about a slump in egg production, according to Clyde Ingram, Louisiana State University poultry specialist. To minimize this problem, he advises providing adequate ventilation of quarters at the level occupied by the chickens. In addition to this, an ample supply of fresh, cool water should be where birds have ready access to it. (Farm Front Drawing)

Pick Sacks May Boost Tar Stains

A plea against the use of asphalt coated picking sacks has been issued again this year by the National Cotton Council through Ouachita Parish County Agent J. J. Joyce, Jr. and others.

Reason for the plea addressed to farmers is that as the sack becomes old asphalt begins to crack and flake and gets into the cotton. It is practically impossible, Joyce said, to remove all of these particles and after the mill has processed the cotton, the finished product has tar spots. As a result of this the fabric may have to be sold at a low price at a loss to the mill.

This loss, the council pointed out, may be passed back to the grower in lower prices for cotton, especially from areas where tar damage has been noticed in the past. In addition, the council informed the agent, anything that increased production costs of cotton materials may mean markets loss to synthetic fabrics.

Plastic coated and plastic dot pick sacks have been developed to replace asphalt sacks. Plain duck sacks also are available, the council added.

Building a fire for the barbecue and basting chicken halves over glowing coals with pungent sauce makes fun out of mealtime work. Broiler - fryer chickens are tasty, juicy and bountiful, so enjoy them while they are plentiful.

Farmers Learning About Farm Pond Fish Production

WINNSBORO, May 28 (Special) — Farmers in this area are learning that they can grow fish at home, says J. H. Durr, work unit Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service.

Interest in fish culture is demonstrated by the fact that approximately 5,500 bass fingerlings were delivered to farmers of this area May 15 to stock farm ponds constructed with the assitance of the Soil Conservation Service, he said.

Recommended for farm ponds is a combination of blue gill bream and large mouth bass. These fish are made available to farmers by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and are transported from the federal hatchery at Natchitoches, La., to a distribution point in each area. Farmers are notified so they can meet the truck and get their quotas of fish.

The bream are delivered first, usually in the fall, and given a chance to get started. The bass are delivered later around April or May. Farm ponds properly stocked and managed, often produce as much as 300 pounds of fish per acre annually, Durr said. In order to harvest a good crop of fish, it is necessary for the farmer to follow a good management plan which will include fertilizing at regular intervals and fishing often to keep the pond from being overpopulated, the conservationist continued. Applications for fish may be made through the local conservation office.

On Ouachita Hill Section Farm

Corn Off To Good Start

Forty-acres of hybrid seed corn is off to a good start on the Ouachita parish hill section farm of W. E. "Dutch" Jones and his brother Glen, located about 18 miles south of West Monroe.

The plot which will produce Dixie-18 variety seed corn, was planted around April 20, 21, and fertilizer application was based upon recommendations from the state soil testing laboratory where samples from the field were analyzed as part of the farm and home development program being carried on by the brothers with extension service cooperation.

The rate per acre of available plant food applied was 90 pounds of phosphate, 70 pounds of potash and 75 pounds of nitogen. Later a sidedressing of 75 pounds per acre of nitogen will be applied. The corn was cultivated twice before reaching the stage for being laid-by. Some of the land was limed last year at the rate of a ton per acre.

Although the Jones brothers have raised a lot of field corn before, this is their first venture into producing hybrid seed corn. They have an agreement for sale of the yield to a seed dealer.

When the corn stalks reach a height of from 12 to 16 inches, an application of technical 2-4-D at the rate of three-quarters pound per acre will be made to control weeds, and another application will be made when the crop is laidby.

One-hundred-ten acres of DPL No. 15 variety cotton received fertilization treatment at the rate of 90 pounds of available phosphate, 70 pounds of potash and 75 pounds of nitrogen per acre, and pre-emerge treatment provided effective weed control. In a few spots where the treatment was missed, weeds grew as high as the cotton.

Planting of cotton on the Jones farm, took place during the period of April 24 to April 28.

The weed control treatment was described by W. B. Aycock, Jr., associate county agent in charge of farm and home development program in which the Jones brothers are enrolled.

"A modern pre-emerge was used on the cotton," he said, "at a cost of two-dollars per acre, whereas if this had not been used the hoeing would have cost eight-dollars an acre."

Dutch Jones said that the pre-emerge treatment was more effective than any hoeing he had seen in keeping cotton free of weeds.

Aycock said, "It was much more effective than use of hoe hands, and the fertility in the ground that would have been used up by the weeds until they were hoed down, was saved."

Another phase in the farm and home development program being followed on the Jones' farm which has 265 open acres and an overall acreage of 718, will be development of pasture land. At present about 140 acres of open land are in pasture.

When crops are laid by, and Glen and Dutch have time, they and Aycock will collect soil samples from the pasture lands and have them analyzed so recommendations can be made for building them up through fertilization.

Plans call for first developing the open pastures, and later clearing additional land for grass crops. At present the brothers have 120 head of beef cattle — counting calves — on their home place. Two registered Hereford bulls are run with this herd. On another place they have between 60 and 70 head of cattle which run with another registered Hereford bull. All of the cows are grade. Purebred bulls have been used with the cows in the Jones' herds for the past 16 years, they said.

The main forage crops in the pastures are bermuda, white dutch clover, vetch, singletary peas, and dallis grass.

Another step in the farm and home development program is in the immediate offing on the Jones' farm. Testing of both their beef cattle herds for bang's disease will be done on May 30, by Dr. A. K. High, district veterinarian with the state livestock board. The brothers plan to get rid of any reactors that are shown up in the tests, and to start then on a program of calfhood vaccination, Aycock said.

Work Unit Chief Observes

Improved Pastures Part Of Conservation Setup

WINNSBORO, May 28 (Special3—Many persons fail to recognize the value of improved pastures as part of a good conservation program, according to J. H. Durr, work unit conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service here.

Pastures, when properly managed, afford one of the most effective economical means of holding and enriching the soil, Durr said. Pastures not only conserve the soil and moisture, but also have a tendency to build up the soil fertility, because during life, death, and decay, plants contribute to the formation of complete, fertile soils.

Measured soil losses from well managed pastures in the eastern portion of the United States show an average annual loss of only 700 pounds of soil per acre. This rate of loss is probably about equal to the amount of new top soil formed each year. On the other hand, results show that the soil loss from land in clean tilled crops is about 97 times the amount lost from good pasture sod.

Contrary to the belief of many farmers, good pastures do not come into being automatically when land is removed from cultivation. The farmer should realize that the many crops that have grown on the land have depleted the soil of many of the essential elements needed to grow a profitable pasture. These elements such as lime and fertilizers must be added back to the land, and reseeding of proper grasses and legumes is essential. Although this takes both work and money it is necessary to make pasture land profitable.

All land cannot be put to pasture just because of its soil holding advantages, but as this is the cheapest food for livestock, it is advisable to determine the land which should be kept permanently in pasture. This is made easier if the farm has been mapped by a soil scientist, and the land classified according to its use capabilities.

The soils map is used as a guide by the farm planner in developing a conservation plan for a farm, Durr said.

Field Day Scheduled By Braham Breeders

The Louisiana Brahman Breeders Association will hold its annual field day in East Feliciana Parish on Thursday, June 21.

Don January Fires 3 Eagles To Capture $6,000 Centennial Open

DALLAS, Tex., May 28 — UP — Easy-going Don January, one of pro golf's most promising young players, blasted out of a sand trap and into the cup for an eagle on the 18th hole Sunday to win the $30,000 Dallas Centennial championship with a 268 total.

It was the 26-year-old North Texas College product's third eagle of a tempestuous round and it gave him a 35-32—67 that nosed out another 26-year-old former collegian, Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, and PGA champion Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., by one-stroke.

January, who yielded his lead to top money-winner Finsterwald at the end of Saturday's third round, desperately needed that eagle. He knew at the time that Finsterwald and Ford had just birdied the 17th behind him and that he needed everything he could wring out of the par-four hole if he was to pick up the $6,000 top money.

Dow Misses Tying Putt

Finsterwald missed a 12 - foot putt for a tying birdie on the final hole while Ford two-putted from 35 feet to finish at 269 and split $5,400 evenly between them. Finstersald had a 35-34—69, Ford a 36-31—67 and both completed four straight subpar tours of the 6,200-yard par 35-35—70 Preston Hollow Country Club course.

January, a hometown youngster now playing out of Abilene, Tex., caught Finsterwald on the very first hole of Sunday's round with the first of his three eagles—a 25-foot chip in from just off the green. But straying irons and woods cost him his lead as he bogyed the third, fifth and eighth holes before he picked up another birdie on the ninth with a 25-foot putt.

He promptly bogyed the 10th with three putts, but then drove the 299-yard 11th hole and sank a four-footer for his second eagle. A 10-foot putt gave him another birdie on the 14th, but he waded through two clumps of trees for a bogey on 15. He parred in until the tremendous eagle blast on the 18th.

January had never finished higher than fourth in his previous 372 days as a pro, picking up $3,417 prior to this tournament.

Billy Maxwell, former National Amateur champion who played with January on North Texas State's three-time NCAA championship teams, wound up with a $1,800 fourth place money with a 35-34—69 Sunday that put him at 272.

Jackson Bradley, a former regular member of the tour who has been devoting himself to his Houston, Tex., pro shop, finished with 37-33—70 to split $2,800 fifth and sixth money with Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla., who had a 34-34—68 for 273.

Five players picked up $910 each by tying at 274. They were Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, Okla., Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.

Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was alone at 276 and picked up $650.

Bob Inman, the Oklahoman playing out of Detroit, Mich., fired a new course record 33-30—63 to wind up at 277 along with Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, and Gardner Dickinson, Panama Beach, Fla.

Post Of Tourney Manager May Be Added To P. G. A.

DALLAS, Tex., May 28— UP — The Professional Golfers Association is planning to hire a tournament manager to augment its staff amid reports of dissension brewing against PGA tournament supervisor Ray O'Brien.

Bob Toski, co-chairman of the players' committee of the PGA, said that there would be a general meeting of the touring pros Wednesday or Thursday here at which the new post would be discussed and grudgingly admitted that O'Brien's status would probably be brought up.

"There is some opposition to O'Brien," Toski admitted, "but he can't be fired as his contract still has some time to run.

"But, the real purpose of the players meeting will be to discuss the hiring of a tournament manager—a man who will go into a city several weeks ahead of a tournament and work with the sponsors in making all the arrangements. That man would not even be around at tournament time. The idea is to make him an addition to the present staff, not a replacement."

But, the rumor around the players' locker room was that O'Brien was on the way out and that Harvey Raynor, former tournament supervisor who only recently was re-hired as an assistant to O'Brien, would succeed him.

The man most mentioned for the new post was Edwin J. Carter, a San Francisco, Calif., press agent.

Toski said that the matter had been under discussion for more than a year and that it already had the PGA executive committee's approval "if we can fit his salary into the PGA budget."

Toski agreed that the idea probably would draw a lot of opposition from the touring pros because the tournament manager's salary actually would come out of the tournament purses — "and that means out of the players' pockets," he emphasized.

"It is hard for some of them—the newcomers, especially — to realize that such a cut out of the prize money actually will be to their benefit in the long run," Toski said.

Sox, Nats Split Double Header, 9-7 And 11-10

BOSTON, May 27 (AP) — Roy Sievers' run - roducing double off the left field wall in the 10th inning gave the Washington Nationals an 11-10 victory over Boston Sunday after the Red Sox won the opener of a wild doubleheader, 9-7.

Sievers, who acts as if he owns Fenway Park, drove in Clint Courtney with his long blast off relief pitcher Tommy Hurd.

The slugging first baseman also homered with two on in the first inning of the nightcap and had a double in Washington's two - run fifth.

Sievers, who also had a homer and a single in the first game, connected for nine hits in 16 official times at bat in the four-game series against Boston. He had four homers, upping his season's total to 11, and drove in 10 runs as Washington took the series 3-1.

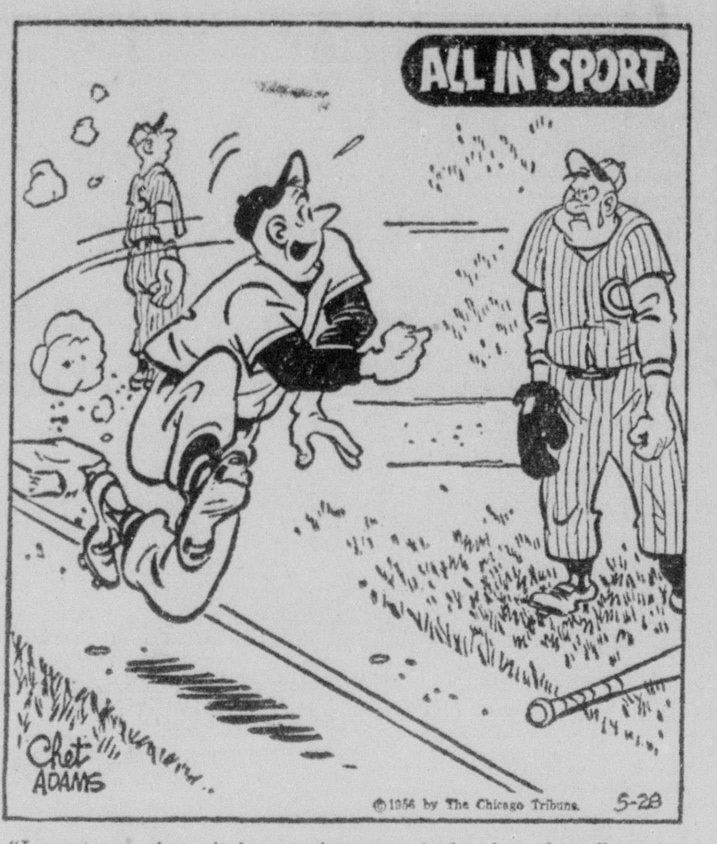
A BOWLING FAMILY

KALAMATH FALLS Ore. (AP)— There was reason for a family celebration following the annual women's tournament, Mrs. LaRayne Harris won her third all events crown in four years. Her sister, Dorothy Bowen, won the singles and another sister Ruth Robb, won the B singles.



"I must say that pitch you threw me had a lot of stuff on it, Lefty. Notice how it curved goin' into the bleachers?"

Chicago Wins 15-Frame First Game, Drops 2nd

CHICAGO, May 27 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox edged the Cleveland Indians 5-4 in 15 innings Sunday on a two-out, run - scoring single by relief pitcher Jim Wilson but dropped the second game of a double-header which was played under the lights, 4-2.

Wilson's single scored Minnie Minoso from second and ended a 4 hour and 52 minute struggle that was finished under the lights. By the time the second game ended only a handful of the crowd of 25,856 was around.

Early Wynn allowed only five hits in the second game to post his fifth triumph against two losses and Cleveland's first decision over the Sox in five games this season.

Cleveland scored in the second inning when Jim Hegan singled home Rudy Regalado who had walked.

Fired Sparring Mate Joins Patterson Camp

MONTICELLO, N. Y., May 28 (AP) — Howie Turner, Brooklyn heavyweight who was dropped from Hurricane Jackson's camp at Summit, N. J., for flooring Jackson in a workout, has joined the camp of Floyd Patterson at Kutscher's Country Club.

Patterson and Jackson will meet in a 12-round heavyweight elimination contest at Madison Square Garden, June 8th. The winner has been promised a shot at Archie Moore for the heavyweight title left vacant by the retirement of Rocky Marciano.

Turner will start boxing with Patterson on Tuesday.

Patterson boxed five rounds Sunday, three with Johnnie Riggins of Detroit, and one each with Davie Dailey and Calvin Wilson of Philadelphia. He has now sparred a total of 43 rounds. He will lay off Monday but will box Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday, laying off again on Friday and complete his heavy work with boxing session on Saturday and Sunday.

Four members of North Carolinas gasketball team of next season will play the game this summer for a Catskill mountain resort hotel.

Complete Field Is Assured For Race At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28 —UP—Rain, which hampered the final weekend of time trials, held off long enough Sunday to assure a full field of 33 cars for Wednesday's "500 mile" auto race.

The oval was opened two and a half hours after the scheduled 11 a.m. CST opening, due to constant downpours.

Then as the sun tried to break through the clouds, five cars were qualified and one was eliminated by a faster car before showers again closed the course.

The fastest qualifier was Cliff Griffith of Indianapolis, driving the same car in which Jerry Hoyt won the pole position last year. He averaged 141.471 miles an hour for the 10 mile test.

Other qualifiers were: Johnnie Tolan, Denver, Colo., 140.061; Eddie Johnson, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, 139.093; Duke Dinsmore, Dayton, Ohio, 138.430; and Eddie Sachs, Indianapolis, 137.373.

Sachs, the 33rd qualifier of the time trials, was ousted from the lineup by Johnson.

More than a dozen cars, including the six-cylinder Ferrari, to be driven by Italian ace Nino Farina, were lined up to be qualified when the rains came.

The Chicago White Sox could play all their games at night as far as big first baseman Walt Dropo is concerned. Dropo batted .325 in 40 night games in 1955.

Landy To Condition For Olympic Games

MELBOURNE, May 28 (AP) — Looking tired and jaded, John Landy, Australia's wonder runner, returned to Melbourne Sunday night from the United States where he made two unsuccessful attempts to beat his own world mile record.

"I am stale now," he said, "but I will start my conditioning program right away for the olympic games here. However, I will not take part in any competition until the Olympic trials in October, and may have only two races before the Olympics.

"I do not want more racing now, because I have had too much."

Landy explained that he will not decide until the trials which event to concentrate upon in his quest for a gold medal.

Cards Approach Top With Double Win Over Cubs

ST. LOUIS, May 28 (AP) — Stan Musial snapped out of a slump with seven runs batted in on four hits, one a three - run homer, and led the St. Louis Cardinals to a doubleheader sweep over the Chicago Cubs, 11-9 and 12-2, which put the Redbirds only 12 percentage points away from first place.

The Cardinals dropped their bat rack on the Chicago pitching staff, punishing 11 Cubs pitchers for 27 hits and 23 runs in the two games to gain a sweep of the three-game series.

Musial hiked his batting average nearly 20 points to .293 with four hits in six trips, including his sixth home run of the season with two on in the seventh inning of the second game, and moved into third place in the league in RBI's with 33.

The Cards blew a seven-run lead in the first game, but rallied to win behind reliefer Lindy McDaniel.

Kansas City And Detroit Divide Double Header

DETROIT, May 27 (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics and the Detroit Tigers divided a doubleheader Sunday, with Art Ditmar's scattering 10 hits for 5-0 shutout in the nightcap after the Tigers belted three home runs to win the opener, 8-2.

Charlie Thompson hit his first American League home run, a double and a single and old Enos Slaughter had a single, double and triple to allow Ditmar to coast to his fourth triumph in the second.

The A's righthander, who has lost three times, was in trouble in every inning. Detroit had at least one hit in every inning but Ditmar, helped out by two double plays, managed to choke off every scoring threat.

Al Kaline, Ray Boone and Charlie Maxwell hit home runs to back up Frank Lary's clutch pitching for Detroit's victory in the first game.

DETROIT, May 28 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers announced Sunday that second baseman Frank Bolling, who has been in the army since September, 1954, will be granted a leave from service Monday and will join the team immediately.

The 24-year-old Bolling, who hit .236 in 117 games with the Tigers in 1954, will receive his discharge around June 20.

Boxing Dropped At LSU

BATON ROUGE, May 28 (AP) — Louisiana State University, defending Sugar Bowl champions and a national power for many years is set to drop college boxing Monday, an L. S. U. source said Sunday.

Boxing has been a major sport at L. S. U. and for years one of the top crowd attractions.

But the sport has been on the decline in the south in recent years and L. S. U. has been forced far afield in order to find opponents. Idaho State, Nevada and Washington State have been L. S. U. boxing foes in recent years.

And the crowds fell off this year, after Crowe Peele, 1955 U. C. A. A. heavyweight champion, turned professional and passed up two year's eligibility.

The source, asking not to be identified, said the L. S. U. athletic council had voted several weeks ago to drop the sport, but did not announce the decision in order to give Athletic Director Jim Corbett more time to work out a home schedule.

But the source said no means had been found to save the sport and the Athletic Committee of the L. S. U. Board of Supervisors was studying the recommendation Monday night.

He said the board was certain to follow the recommendation of the council. And a board member who opposed dropping the sport in past years said that a number of southern schools had dropped the sport since then and he would go along with the proposal.

In eight Sugar Bowl appearances, L. S. U. has won six, including the last three years in a row, lost one and tied one.

Costs Of College For Football Player Given

LOS ANGELES, May 28 (AP) — All right, what does it cost a college football player to get through school in these times?

The recent Pacific Coast Conference three - year slapdown of U. C. L. A. for boosting its monthly grant to gridders from $75 to $115 makes the answer important and timely.

The answer, in Tom Thaxter's case, is $171.35 a month.

Thaxter, 21-year-old U. C. L. A. guard with one more year of eligibility — if the P. C. C. doesn't take it away from him, outlined his expenses in an interview with Bob Oates, Los Angeles Examiner sportswriter.

Thaxter said his present cost of living includes only one frill — a car, which last month cost him $23.69 to operate. That would make his rock - bottom budget $147.66. Some people have recommended that $150 monthly aid to P. C. C. gridders would not be out of line.

This fall, under a new conference rule, coast football players will draw $100 a month. At present, the figure is $75, plus $40 under the table at U. C. L. A.

Thaxter, a Fresno, Calif., athlete said he doesn't see how he can stay in school without the aid.

"Without an income from football I'll have to leave U. C. L. A. this fall and finish pre-med at Fresno State, where I can live at home," says Thaxter, an "A" student.

Here's Thaxter's careful breakdown of his monthly budget:

Board and room, $78.72; weekend meals (his frat house kitchen closes on Saturdays and Sundays), $24.85; laundromat, $2.80; laundry, $6.20; cleaning, $1.40; toothpaste, .49; haircut, $1.50; books, $3.06; tuition, $10; clothing, $15.24; gasoline, $6.14; car repairs, $4.05; car insurance, $13.50; movies and malts $3.40.

The movies (two) and malts (four) represented Thaxter's full outlay for amusement, aside from his car, which he also needs for transportation.

"I'm not much of a socialite," explains Thaxter. "I'm tied to these books. The average guy probably goes through 20 bucks a month for dates and entertainment."

How does Thaxter make up the difference between $115 and $171? He digs ditches for the gas company in Fresno at $1.74 an hour during the summer. Last summer he saved $550.

"It's not the greatest training for a med student," he comments, "but it's pretty good for football."

How does his school week break down during football season?

"He's in classes 23 hours, football practice and meetings take 19 hours, and his campus job — for that $115 grand — requires 13½ hours, he says.

That's about a 55 - hour week before studies and Thaxter estimates he puts in at least another 20 hours on the books each week.

Admittedly, not all students are carrying a pre - medical load, nor are all football players in Thaxter's class as a student.

But Thaxter has been good enough on the gridiron to win two letters and was slated for first string guard this year despite weighing only 178 pounds.

If he would do it all over, would he make the same financial deal with U. C. L. A.?

"I'd have to if I wanted to play football," Thaxter replies. "You can't do three things at once — go to school, play football and work at a job."

Food Shortage In Next 50 To 100 Years Predicted

By PATRICK CARR

NEW YORK —UP— A team of scientists has peerd into the future and come to the conclusion that within 50 to 100 years the demand for food, minerals and energy will be so great it will take every ounce of available brainpower to provide it.

By the year 2,000 they believe man will be extracting fuel from common rocks and food from wheat stalks, roots, and plant life that today is discarded as worthless.

But they are convinced there is almost no limit to the amount of food and minerals obtainable if man has the brains and energy to get it from difficult sources.

This conclusion was reached in an exhaustive study by scientists at California Institute of Technology in co-operation with the management of leading American coporations.

Industry's response to the study has been thoughtful and enthusiastic.

"The realization that technical brainpower is our most valuable and replenishable resource illuminates the future with hope," said Dr. R. W. Cairns, director of research for the Hercules Powder Co.

"The report revealed our complete dependence on the brainpower and resources of our scientists and engineers to meet the imposing challange of growing population and shrinking natural resources," he added.

H. S. M. Burns, president of the Shell Oil Co. said, "I found the report on minerals, meals and men not only intensely interesting but very thought-provoking."

More than 1,500 saber-tooth tiger skulls have been recovered from the La Brea tar pits at Los Angeles.

DRAFTEES and VETERANS GUIDE

FOR RESERVESTS, DRAFTEES, SERVICEMEN and VETERANS

By Major Thomas M. Nial

Home Buying

Many veterans, it seems, approach their first venture into home buying with mixed feelings. They're eager yet they're uneasy.

They're eager because it generally means more room for the family, freedom from apartment living or renting a home from someone else, a home to call their own.

They're uneasy because probably they're taking the biggest financial step of their lives. It's a new venture. And 25 or 30 years of monthly payments almost seems infinite.

To ease the doubts, they compare notes with other vets who've already gone through the rigors. Some times they find consolation because they're told that the experience is only a normal reaction.

Now the Veterans Administration has, unwittingly perhaps, provided some vets on the brink of home-buying with a yardstick by which they can measure whether they fit today's pattern of home buying veterans.

The VA got its facts for the yardstick from a sampling of more than a million GI home loans made to World War-II and Korean War vets during 1954 and 1955.

The average age, the VA found, of vets buying GI homes was 32.1 years, but the ages ranged from 20 to 72.

The average monthly income of these vets was $493.80 or a yearly income of about $6,000. This, incidentally, was their gross income before taxes and other deductions. The range of income ran from $1,800 to $90,000 a year.

The estimated monthly housing expense for the VA's average vet figured out to be $96.75, or about one-fifth of their average monthly income. These expenses included principal and interest payments on mortages; the estimated cost of taxes, insurance, heat and utilities and an allowance for expected maintenance costs.

The percentage of monthly income that these vets were expected to spend on housing ranged from 12 per cent for the relatively few veterans having monthly incomes of $800 or more to 29 per cent for the few with incomes of less than $300 monthly.

When it came to price, they spent an average of $11,791. However, the average price paid for new and second-hand homes was about $500 higher in 1955 than in 1954.

Fewer veterans made down payments in 1955 for their homes than in 1954. During 1955, 40 out of 100 loans were made with no down payments, while in 1954 the ratio was only 28 out of every 100.

The veterans who had to put up cash for down payments bought higher priced new houses — about 18 per cent higher —than did the veterans who made no down payments. The difference was an average of $13,204 to $11,204.

And when the VA's average vet figured up his liquid assets — that is, cash and other things he could turn into cash — he had about $1,865 or nearly 16 per cent of the average price paid for homes during 1954 and 1955.

That's the VA's yardstick. The veterans approaching home buying can easily measure whether he's like the nation's vets who made the plunge into real estate during the past two years.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug counter.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drugstores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

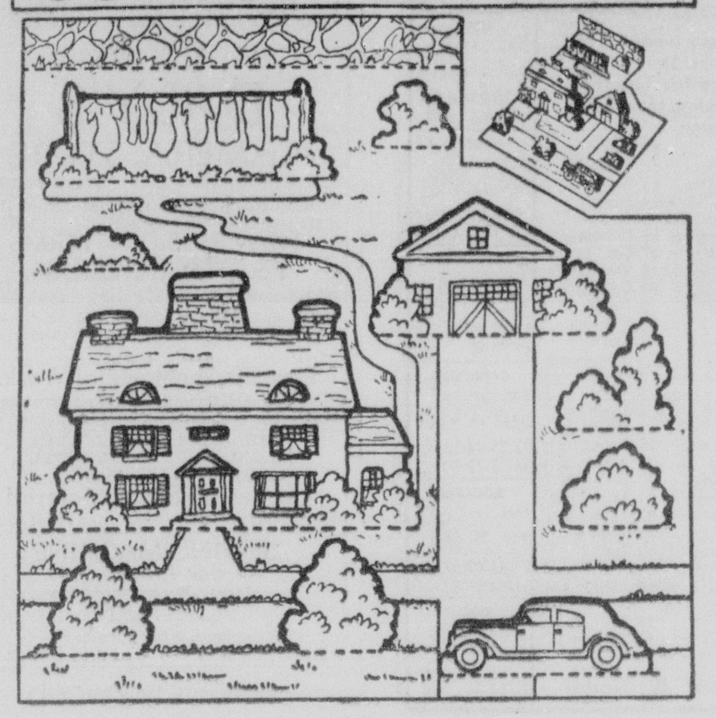
TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR:

JUNIOR EDITORS



CUT-OUT HOUSE

Here is a house with a garage for the car and a drying yard for the washing. By coloring this picture and then cutting it out according to directions you can make it look very real.

You may want to color the house like your own, or a friend's. The lawn should be green, with the bushes darker green, and the clothes on the line will show best if they are brightly colored.

When you have finished coloring it paste the panel down on cardboard. Study the little diagram in the corner, which shows you how it should look when completed.

Cut around the clothes lines, the bushes, the house, the garage and the car as indicated by the dark outline. Fold up the wall at the back of the yard. Fold all the cut out parts forward so they stand up as they do in the little diagram, then set the picture on the table so that it looks like a real house and grounds.

(This idea was first submitted by Susan Weiss, Arlington, Va. If you have an idea for a Junior Editors panel send it in care of this newspaper, and it may win you $10. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures.) 5-28

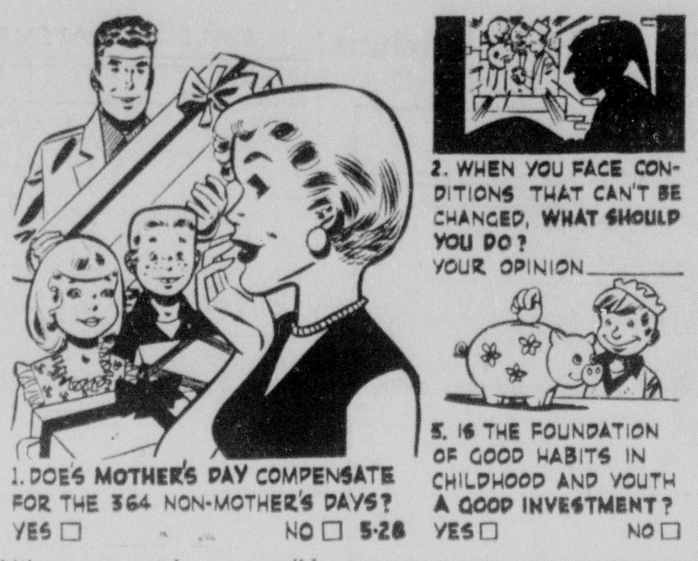
LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



1. DOES MOTHER'S DAY COMPENSATE FOR THE 364 NON-MOTHER'S DAYS?
YES ☐ NO ☐ 5-28
2. WHEN YOU FACE CONDITIONS THAT CAN'T BE CHANGED, WHAT SHOULD YOU DO?
YOUR OPINION ________
3. IS THE FOUNDATION OF GOOD HABITS IN CHILDHOOD AND YOUTH A GOOD INVESTMENT?
YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No, notwithstanding the opinion of the flower and confectionery industries, say Jane Whitbread and Vivian Cadden in "The Intelligent Man's Guide to Women." To most women, it adds up to the following: "There's nothing special about women; still, we can't get along without them. So, we'd better pat them on the back occasionally, just to keep them from walking out." So mothers are honored annually in an orgy of sentimentality for their status — and mostly unnoticed for what they do.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Change your attitude. You plan to buy something but find you have lost your money. Very well — change your desires or else be miserable. You are unhappy in marriage, and for some reason a divorce is impossible. If you don't change yourself, it means continued misery. "What can't be cured must be endured." But the only sensible way to endure it is to alter your desires, hopes, ambitions as much as possible. You'll be amazed how much these can be changed if you make up your mind to learn to desire other things.

Be honest with yourself!

Are you really grown-up? An easy formula helps you become a happy, poised person. For "How to be an Emotional Grownup," send 15c (coin only) and self-addressed, stamped envelope (name, city and state) to Dr. A. E. Wiggam, c-o this newspaper.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes. William James likened the formation of good habits early in life to a young man who buys a large endowment policy. By "fashioning his nervous system" in the right way, he can turn most of the ordinary customs of life over to "the effortless custody of habit." He can, in old age, "live at ease on the fund." Overcoming bad habits and forming good ones can be learned in our booklet, "Master Your Bad Habits." Nonprofit, 15c (coin only) and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cassibry Plans To Run For Mayor

NEW ORLEANS, May 27 (AP) — Councilman Fred Cassibry yesterday told a local television audience his political plans included running for mayor.

Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison, who has held the office for the past 10 years, ends his current term in 1958.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Is it absolutely necessary to confess to a minister any misdeed, or merely to God A.B.C.

ANSWER: Before Christ died on the cross there was a heavy cloth partition in the temple in Jerusalem, separating the outer temple from the inner. This was called the veil. At the time Christ died on the cross one of the violent physical manifestations which took place was a tearing apart of this veil from top to bottom. This was symbolic of a glorious aspect of Christ's death on the cross and his resurrection from the dead. Mankind no longer needs an intermediary between himself and God. He can now go directly to God in the name of His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ. When you have sinned, your confession should be made to God and with that confession there should be the determination, by God's help, to refrain from further sin. At the same time, if your sins have affected other people you owe it to them to go and confess your sin to them also, asking their forgiveness and assuring them of your love. The Bible says: "Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee: leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way: first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."

NATURAL GAS...

...important factor in the production of Brick and Tile

It may seem a far cry from natural gas to brick and tile, but here in the Gulf South where many plants manufacture these products, gas plays an important role. In the heating processes required, natural gas provides clean, even-temperature heat . . . producing better brick and tile . . . more economically.

To keep pace with the demands for their products, brick and tile companies need a continuous supply of dependable fuel. United Gas offers this great industry, and all other industrial plants locating along its pipe lines, adequate, uninterrupted supplies of fuel the year around . . . an important factor in attracting industry to any community.
